With the opening of a new high school, we, as Cavaliers, have learned to adapt to a new environment. From the absence of close friends to the loss of teammates and teachers, we have risen to each and every challenge.

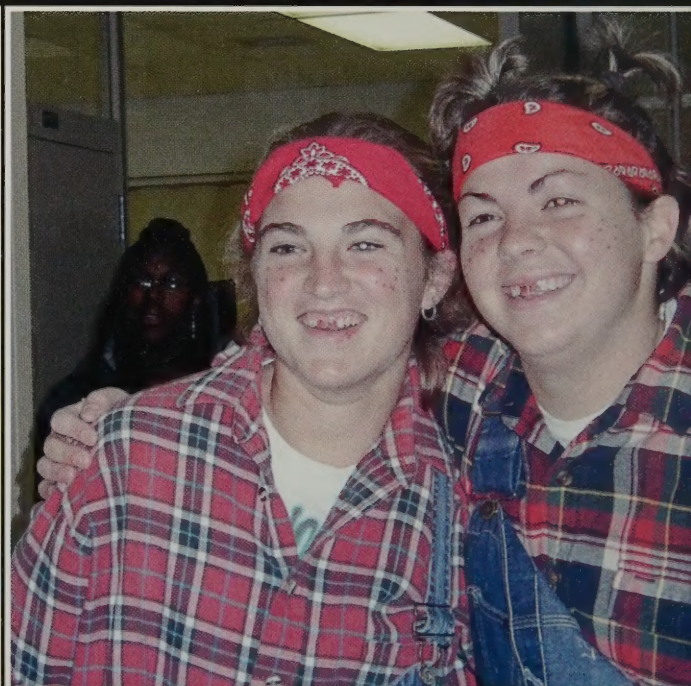

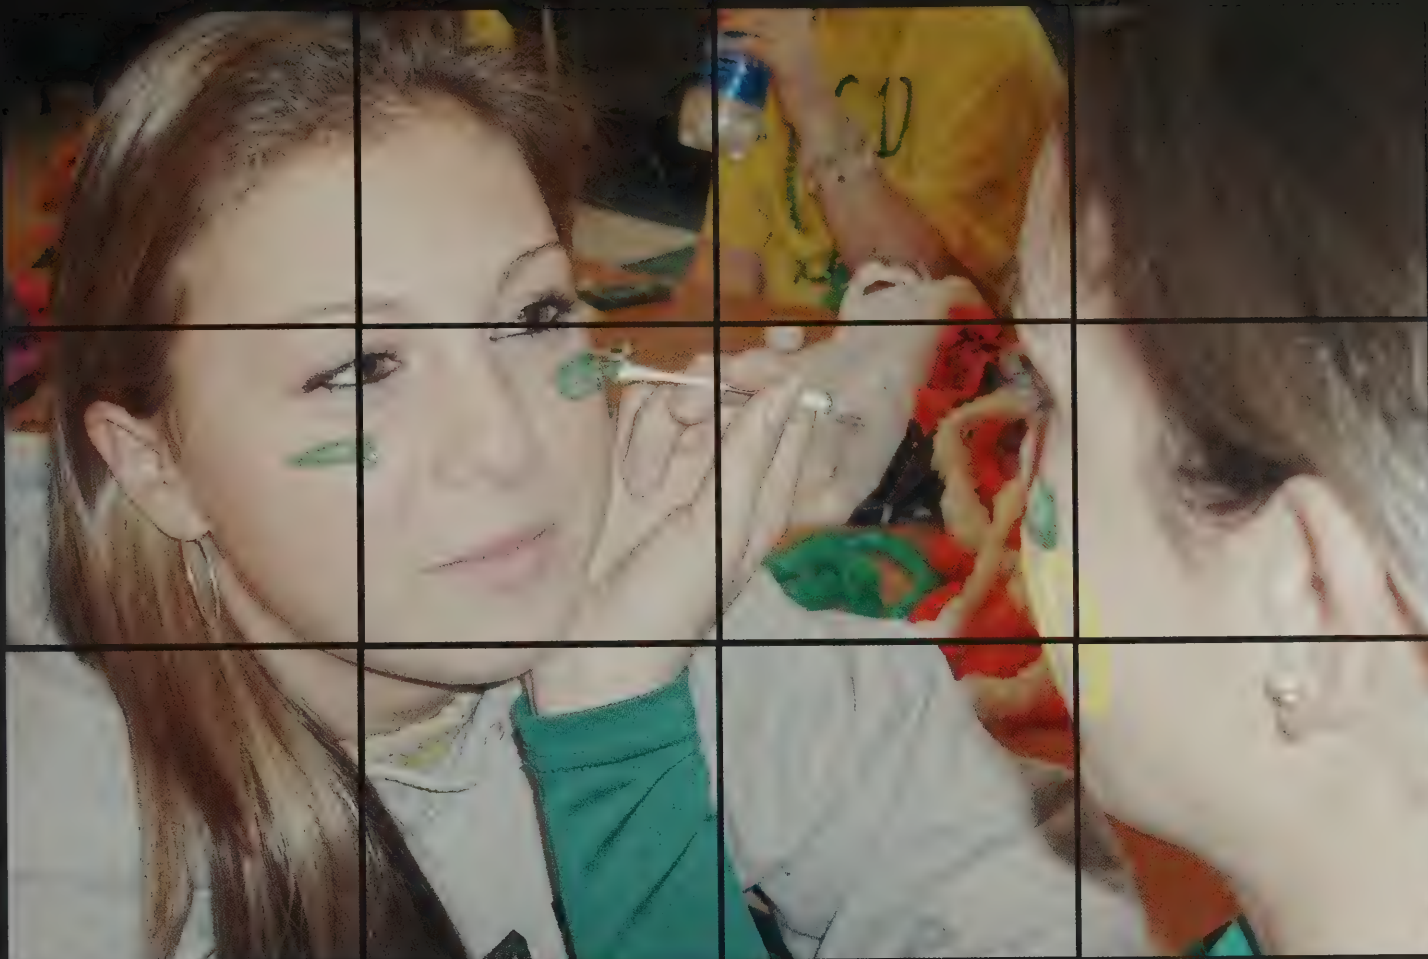

Each day, we find our paths converging with new classmates, regardless of our individual backgrounds. Whether this is our first step into the school or our last, and despite the districts we may have come from, we are all united under the colors green and gold.

Whether acting in a school play, wearing green and gold during Spirit Week, joining in afterschool activities, or simply cheering for your class during the Pep Rally, Clover Hill is defined by its student life.

jeweled juniors

fewer rings received than in past years

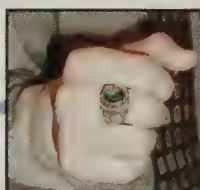

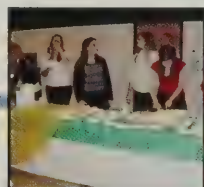

The Junior Ring Ceremony was held on October 16th in the gym, where Dr. Marks spoke about the importance of her high school ring and the memories associated with it. As is tradition, the Senior class officers presented the rings to the Junior class officers, who then awarded rings to the rest of the Junior class. "I was a bit jealous when the officers received their rings before me, but I knew that I would get mine soon enough," said Junior Elizabeth Benton-Levith. With all the noticeable excitement the students felt towards becoming upperclassmen, something was missing. Nearly half of the class rings purchased last year at Clover Hill were given to Juniors elsewhere. When students ordered their rings, some had to ask for the Cosby High School emblem. Due to these requests, the ceremony was shorter than usual but still had the customary level of anticipation. After the rings were handed out, the Juniors, along with their families, celebrated in the commons with cake and punch. Skeptical at first, the Juniors participated in their ring turning tradition with enthusiasm by the end of the evening.

"I thought the ceremony would be longer, but I still had fun with all my friends together in the same place. This celebration made my birthday even better. My ring was so pretty and was by far my favorite present."

- Junior Ellen Ross

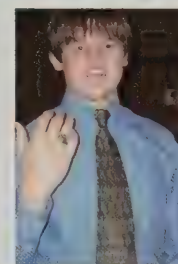

"The ceremony was great. It was a bit upsetting that I could not get my ring yet and got a card instead, but it was still a lot of fun. I really enjoyed the cupcakes and punch on the tables during the celebration."

- Junior Hunter Hoke

"The ceremony made me feel like an upperclassman. I got a green stone since it is the school's color. I wanted it to not only show the Cavalier on the side, but the color in the stone. This is something I hope to keep until I go to college and get another class ring."

- Junior Josh Deal

"Getting my ring was a great experience. My ring made being a new Cavalier, along with being an upperclassman, feel official. I will probably wear my ring every day to remind myself of my Cavalier identity."

- Junior Rachelle Moore

Above: The Juniors display their variety of rings in the Commons after the ceremony. "It was exciting to see the different preferences everyone had designing their rings," said Junior Class President Alex Almore. The Juniors made sure that they took advantage of the cake and punch at the concessions table.

Even though the Junior class is smaller, I felt the ceremony really brought us together, no matter what school we were at last year.

"Class Distinction Day was the bomb! I loved getting together with all the other Sophomores and showing our spirit. We really gave those Seniors a run for their money."

- Sophomore Christine Golden

"I had so much fun dressing up in the style from the 1980's. The clothes did not really match so I sort of combined Mismatch Day and Retro Day, but that made my outfit all the more special and original."

- Sophomore Hunter Tatum

"It was cool to finally wear a toga to the pep rally after seeing Seniors wear them ever since I was a Freshman. The togas helped make being a Senior feel official."

- Senior Paige Mische

"Mismatch Day was oh-so-much fun! I loved being able to wear high socks and high top kicks to school and be able to get away with it. I can not wait till I get to wear crazy clothes again next year."

- Sophomore Connor McCarthy

Above: Seniors Amy George, Sarah George, Ian Stowe, and Molly Berman show their school spirit by dressing up for Retro Day. "It was really cool to see the four of us next to each other since we represented the 50's, 60's, 70's, and 80's," said Sarah George. All four Seniors continued to dress up for each spirit day the rest of the week.

Retro Day was a fun way to experience styles that many of us were not around for. I had to ask my mom for old clothes from her closet.

Spirit week appropriately reflected the changes the student body had been through due to redistricting. The theme, "Seasons of Change," was represented with hallway decorations from each class. The Freshmen lined the halls with spring flowers, the Sophomores with summer scenes, the Juniors with fall leaves, and the Seniors with winter snow. "Spirit week helped everyone get more school spirit and unified us as a whole," said Sophomore Rebecca Mitchell. Each spirit day had a different theme and was met with enthusiasm by the students. Mismatch Day, Twin Day, Jersey Day, and Retro Day were not as popular as the week's final theme, Class Distinction Day. "Class Distinction Day was my favorite because you could identify which class had the most spirit," said Freshman Alex Carter. The week concluded with the "Best Hallway Award" given to the Juniors for their Halloween, football, and fall leaves decorations.

junior participation decreases

As Senior and Junior girls took the field for the traditional Powderpuff game, there was a notable difference in the sizes of the teams. The Seniors, with over 80 participants, more than doubled the 35 Junior girls. Spirit was in greater supply on the Senior side of the stadium as well, consisting of twelve Senior cheerleaders to the eight Junior cheerleaders. During halftime, each group of cheerleaders performed a routine, the Seniors to "Money Maker" and the Juniors to "Dude Looks Like a Lady." With the decrease of Junior participation, the officials increased their enforcement of the rules. The Senior team scored three touchdowns before one was counted. The first two were recalled due to fouls committed by the Seniors. "When the Seniors scored the first touchdown so soon, we knew we were going to get crushed," said Junior Kirsten Roberts, "But then they recalled it, and we got psyched because we knew we could have a chance." Even with these obstacles, the Seniors prevailed, winning the game 18-0.

Above: Seniors Grace Cuenin, Lee Coleman, and Whitney McKenzie lead the run onto the field. "It was weird playing this year because half the girls we expected to be playing against are at Cosby. Our team was filled with athletic girls, so we crushed, but the refing was definitely bogus. There were so many more calls this year than there have been in the past," said Senior Coleman. Despite the calls, Seniors pulled through with the win.

"Cheering was a lot more work than people give those girls credit for. Memorizing the lines and the movements that go with them was really time consuming. Not to mention actually trying to execute those movements- tough."

- Senior Travis Mitchell

"Powderpuff was so awesome! It was a really great way to meet new people. Having the boys coach us was really funny, but I learned a lot about the game. It was also pretty hilarious seeing the guys cheer us on."

- Junior Heather Griffith

"Powderpuff was a great experience because I got to share my experience playing football with the girls that are normally watching from the stands. Plus, we got to show the Juniors who is boss, and that was awesome."

- Senior Nick Windom

"I never understood football until I played this year. The practices were fun and the girls really put their hearts into the game. It was a great feeling to win as a senior, even though the Juniors put up a great fight."

- Senior Amy Kirkland

It was my job as Co-Captain with Senior Kevin Kennedy to lead the Senior Cheerleaders. It was exciting entertaining the crowd and watching our Senior ladies dominate.

- Senior Ian Stowe

Left: Senior football players get pumped up before the game. "It was a lot more fun this year, knowing we had a chance of winning," said Senior Sam Platania.

"It was really exciting seeing the whole school get excited and cheer us on because of the hard work and time we put into our routine."

-Senior Becky Shields

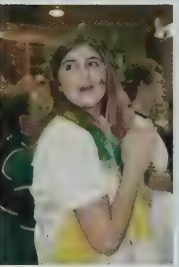

"The pep rally was awesome! It was so loud in there. Everyone was so excited, and we'll have better luck with the Spirit Stick next year."

- Freshman Alex Brown

"I think it's so great to be nominated and elected by my fellow peers. It was such an honor to accept the title of Junior Prince, and I was proud to represent my Junior Class at the Pep Rally."

- Junior Phillip Moore

"The spirit of the Pep Rally was amazing. Every class participated, cheered as loud as possible, and had a lot of fun. My favorite part, of course, was when the Seniors won the Spirit Stick!"

- Senior Kristen Felix

Above: Members of the Senior Class, adorned with togas and ivy, cheer their way to victory. "Seniors crushed all the other classes. We were loud and showed what Clover Hill school spirit is all about," said Senior Liz Smith. The Senior Class's 539 students overwhelmed all other classes and they won the Spirit Stick.

I was definitely in for a thrill when I walked up to the spotlight. The pep rally in general was the best one I've been to yet.

pep rally moved inside because of rain

Senior football players

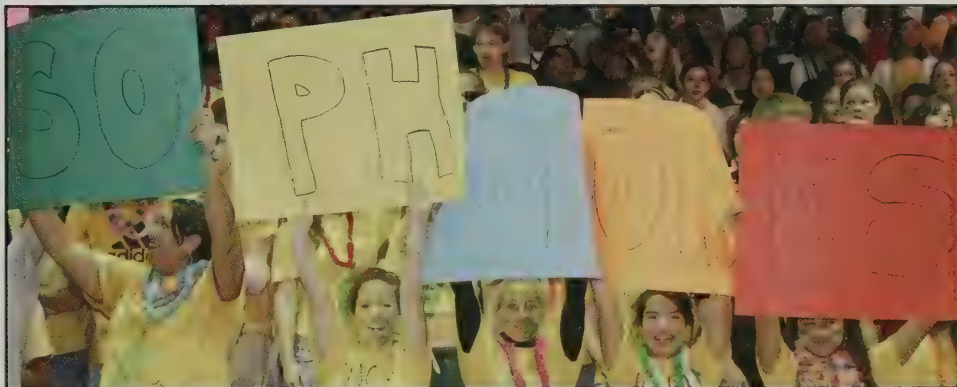

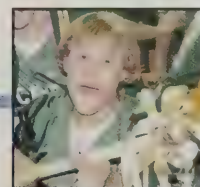

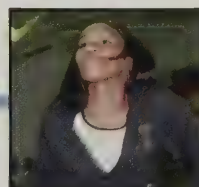

The inclement weather on the Friday of Homecoming Week forced the Spirit Week Pep Rally to be moved inside. There were a few initial problems as some performers had to change their routines to fit the gym atmosphere, but all problems were solved, and the Pep Rally went off without a hitch. "It was really loud inside, but I liked it better because you could see people more clearly," said Freshman Jessi Ellis. Students entered the gym wearing their class colors: white for Freshman, yellow for Sophomores, green for Juniors, and togas for Seniors. Pep Rally performers included the Varsity cheerleaders, the Cavalettes, and the newly formed Hip Hop Dance Team. "The Hip Hop Dance Team was amazing! I loved their 'Walk It Out' performance," said Junior Kristen Merritt. All the performances pumped the students up for the highlight of the pep rally, the spirit stick competition. The Senior Class capped off the Pep Rally by winning the spirit stick for the second year in a row.

students brave cold as Senior and Homecoming nights combined

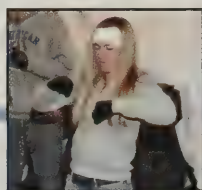

The heavy rain on the Friday of Homecoming Week caused most of the game festivities, including the parade and the crowning of the Homecoming Queen, to be postponed. The football team played through the rain and muddy conditions to beat George Wythe 47-8. The crowning of Homecoming Queen was moved to the dance the next night, and the parade was moved back a week to be combined with Senior Night. Many students braved the frosty weather to see the last home game of the year. Before the game, students watched the Homecoming Parade, performances by the Cavalettes and the Hip Hop Dance Team, and the announcing of Senior football players. During halftime, the marching band performed, the Homecoming Princesses were announced, and the winners of the hallway and float competitions, the Junior and Senior classes, respectively, were awarded. "I really liked the Senior float, and the Math and Science Star Wars float was really cute," said Sophomore Caitlin Rotchford.

- Freshman Kelsey Remme

"Working on the float was really cool. Everyone helped out, and my favorite part was when we all goofed off with the light sabers."

- Sophomore Katie Combs

"It was fun to work with some of my good friends on this project, especially my friends who convinced me to help out with the parade. We worked really hard to pull together our dance and costume and I hope that all the time and effort showed."

- Senior Heather Raburn

"I think that the parade was excellent. It showed the talents of plenty of the students in the school. People enjoyed our hip-hop dance team, but I personally enjoyed the Junior Class performing 'Thriller.' I look forward to seeing next year's parade."

- Sophomore Sean Johnson

"Our class has always won the float competition; being such a stunning centerpiece of such a great float was an honor. The view from the globe was exhilarating," said Walker. "Homecoming was a phenomenal experience. Just seeing everyone dressed up and looking nice was great. The snow cones were an added bonus for a night of hard dancing and having a good time."

-Junior Chenell York

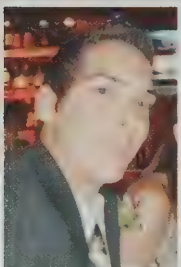

"It was a lot of fun getting to spend time with my friends and bringing my friend from Cosby to the dance with me. My favorite part of the night was the light show in the gym."

-Sophomore Lacey Eramian

"From the decorations, to the DJ, to the free snowballs, the night was very memorable and definitely the best homecoming I've been to yet. The theme overall was well picked since it fit the school year perfectly. Seeing new and old faces come together was something I'll never forget."

-Junior Caitlyn Baker

"This was my first and most likely my last Homecoming. But it was a night I can remember for a very long time. Everyone here makes a really big deal out of dates, but mine was really awesome and she helped make it a great night."

- Junior Hendrik Lemke

"It was such an honor to be nominated by my peers for the ballot, but an even greater honor to be crowned. It was the last dance for many of us, and I'm glad it came together so well," said Cunningham. Cunningham, President of the SCA, was also in charge of putting the dance together.

It was a little different without all the people I am friends with who now go to Cosby High. In the end, my dates made up for the change!

homecoming theme brings together old and new students

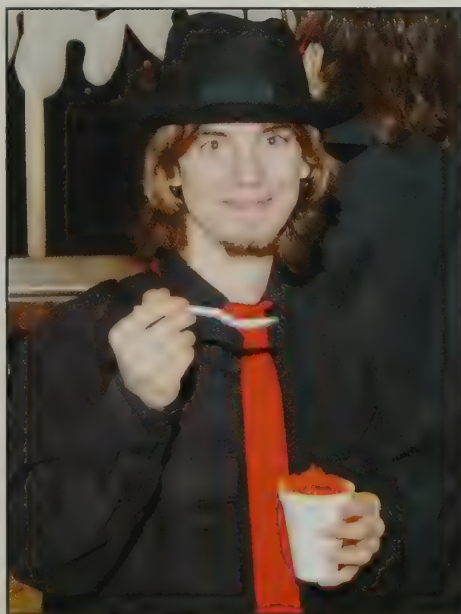

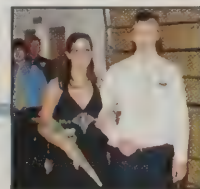

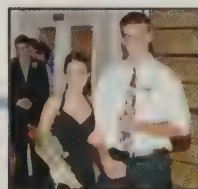

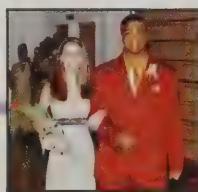

Students in the Commons

On October 28, the Homecoming Dance gave old and new friends a chance to dance and make memories. The theme, "Seasons of Change," represented the changes experienced with the opening of Cosby High School. Trees decorated the hallway to the Commons showing the transition from spring to fall with the Commons representing winter with snowflakes, white balloons, and streamers. The Commons also had a place for students to eat snow cones. Inside the gym was a light show, establishing a change from previous years. At the conclusion of the dance, the Homecoming Court was announced with the crowning of Homecoming King and Queen, Seniors Ian Stowe and Kellyn Cunningham. "I never thought I would ever be nominated for homecoming princess. Being chosen by my peers made me appreciate it even more," said Freshman Remy Biase. While the Queen is generally announced the night before at the Homecoming Game, rain caused the crowning to be postponed until the dance.

drama department performs Disney's High School Musical

Disney's High School Musical first aired in the United States on January 20th, 2006. Modeled after such romantic tales as Romeo and Juliet, and even Grease, High School Musical is the tale of two high school students in modern society who share a love for drama and music. Because of the novelty of the production, Mrs. Ginger Gobble became the first drama teacher in a public high school to perform the musical. "Because of the cooperation with Disney, I was not allowed to deviate at all. I had a contract which stated specifically what I was and was not allowed to do," said Gobble. Lack of proper preparation time and the prevalent fear of copyright infringement pushed cast members closer together more quickly than ever before. "I have never seen a cast with this much energy. Everyone is so excited and the chemistry is amazing. We all have our strengths and cover each other's weaknesses. Everyone respects one another and brings something excellent to the table," said Junior Brittany Slade, who played the precocious and arrogant Sharpay Evans.

"It's been fun but it's also sad because it's the last musical for the Seniors. I'm glad that we did so many shows of the High School Musical and I only wish we could do more."

- Senior Antonio Harris

"This year, the play is the same generation we are living in now, so people will know what we are talking about because they are living in the drama."

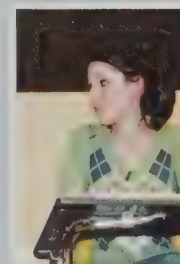

- Junior Mallory Keene

"The Seniors were actually really nice. I was thinking I would only have one or two cast member as friends, but it turned out that everyone was close."

- Sophomore Kieran Cleary

"This play was more tedious, because it was my first musical so I am used to only one director instead of three."

- Freshman Josh Orange

"High School Musical was a good choice because it's new, original, and no other school in the state has done it yet," said Senior Sarah Faszewski. Many of the castmembers had previous experience in school productions, but for some, High School Musical was their first musical.

I love performing and entertaining an audience. High School Musical offered me the chance to entertain people of all ages.

bloody good fun

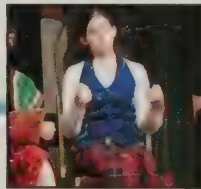

staff member writes new twist on a classic

As opposed to previous years when the Drama Department had to buy the rights for plays, the Winter Play was written by a member of the staff: Mr. Sloan Burns, the Director of the Mathematics and Science High School. Mr. Burns came up with the idea for the play over the summer. "I had read Macbeth over the summer and thought it had really funny parts. Over Thanksgiving Break, I combined Macbeth with Monty Python humor and a character from the musical Oklahoma, and though the result was far from perfect, I think it was pretty good," said Mr. Burns. While Mr. Burns originally aspired for Macbeth to be a Math Science production, the play grew to include all of the school's thespians, including much more different talents. In contrast with the original Macbeth by Shakespeare, Mr. Burns' version was a musical and had comedy integrated into the dialogue. While the play was far from conventional, it drew a large, animated audience each night and hopefully set a new tradition for the school.

"I enjoyed working with Mr. Triesler and Senior Ben Wheat. Mr. Burns also did a good job with the script and directing."

Junior and Senior guys show off their many talents

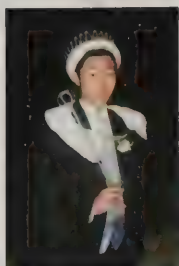

As a yearly tradition, Junior and Senior guys had the opportunity to participate in the Mr. Clover Hill competition. The show consisted of swimsuit, talent, and formal wear sections in which the boys were judged. Also, the guys participated in the always-popular group dance at the opening and closing of the show. "The dance had a good beat. We got to rip off our shirts and show off our manliness," said Senior Brad Fagan. Through the swimsuit portion, many varieties of outfits were chosen. These choices ranged from a tee shirt and shorts to a Speedo. Alongside this came the telling of their most embarrassing moments. "I loved telling my story on stage and hearing everyone laugh at it," said Senior Lucas Fritz. Then came the talent portion where all of the guys showcased their individual abilities. After showing off their talents, the boys dressed up for the formal wear competition. At the end of the night, the judges tallied up the votes, and Senior Jordan Wilson was crowned as the new Mr. Clover Hill.

As a Sophomore, Kraines was one of the few underclassmen who was invited to Prom.

prom held at the Science Museum of Virginia

While Prom was traditionally held at the Koger Center at the Holiday Inn, Dr. Marks wanted a special venue for the last original Clover Hill class. In charge of finding a new location for Prom were Senior moms, Mrs. Early and Mrs. Howe. Attempting to find a place for Prom proved challenging; however, the Pavillion at the Science Museum was able to accommodate everyone. Covered in light and dark blue balloons, the Pavillion was decorated in an underwater theme. "The water on the ceiling looked cool and so did the seashells on the tables," said Junior Forrest Potter. Students began arriving at 8:00 with the crowning of the Prom King, Senior Jin Yoo, and Prom Queen, Senior Katie Wall at 10:00. During the traditional Prom King and Queen dance, Senior Jin Yoo began break dancing against another student. "When I saw them breakdancing, my first thought was 'wicked sweet!' At the conclusion of Prom, students drove from the Science Museum to the Robious Sports and Fitness Center for Post Prom. Many of the traditional events were there, including card tables, karaoke, snacks, a money machine, and an obstacle course. However, the PTSA added a surfing machine, mega Twister, boxing, and a life-sized Operation game in order to attract even more students to come. The PTSA established Post Prom to keep students from drinking and driving after Prom. "My favorite part of Post Prom was beating my best friend, Alan Davis, in boxing. The food was also excellent, especially the Chick-fil-a platter," said Senior Stephen Kaerwer. Juniors and Seniors that stayed all night won prizes like microwaves, minifridges, autographed pictures of Nascar drivers, and gift certificates for items from gas to coffee. As the clock approached 4:30am, students began to leave and were able to reminisce on all of the memories that were made that night.

team responds to preseason pressure

Varsity Team

In the Richmond Times-Dispatch preseason poll, the Varsity football team was ranked third in the region, giving fans high hopes and putting the pressure on the players to uphold the expectations. The football team tried to ignore the rankings and focus on playing their best every game, and despite suffering many injuries throughout the season, the team ended up with a 9-1 record. "Even being ranked at the beginning of the season, we knew we had to work each week to get the respect we deserved," said Senior Will Riggerbach. Out of the 22 starting players, 21 were Seniors which made the team play their best, knowing that for most of them it would be their last season. "Being a group of mainly Seniors, we all realized that this was our last shot to greatness. We went out every week knowing it could shatter our dreams, and that made us play much harder," said Senior Adam Mehrer. The team ended their season with a spot in the regional playoffs for the first time since 1994.

new football coach inspires team motivation

Starting their season early in August with a new coach, the Junior Varsity and Freshmen Football teams worked together to meet higher expectations. Practice after practice, the boys worked together to improve their playing skills under the leadership of Coach Chisom, Coach Brown, Coach Conklin, and new coach John Fout. "At the Freshmen level, seeing the team gel and begin to work together and care about each other has been fantastic. We have been able to come together to find some good successes on the field," said Fout. Playing football established an expectation of winning and success that could help the students to improve their motivation, team spirit and hard work. The students and the new coach both got the chance to learn something about each other. Coach Fout was able to provide assistance to the players on the field and apply what he knows about that individual to help him in class as well. "Coaching allows a teacher to know student's interests and see their abilities in extra-curricular activities," said Coach Fout.

modest beginnings

team works up from meager start

A winning season looked doubtful for the Varsity and Junior Varsity field hockey teams on the first day of tryouts in August. Four of the twenty-four Junior Varsity players from the last season returned, while the rest created Cosby High School's first Varsity team. With seven players on the roster by the annual invitational, JV was forced to play short at seven versus seven, instead of the normal eleven players. At Freshmen orientation, Varsity players and Coach Donna Stables recruited girls they could teach to play, bringing the JV team up to fifteen players. "Of all the teams I have coached, this one has learned to be the most flexible. They all learned every position," said Varsity coach, Mrs. Stables. "I could put my sweep in at forward, with complete confidence she could score, and she did." With versatility came endurance as most teammates played the majority of the game. With JV playing full field at eleven versus eleven, and Varsity up to seven substitutes, field hockey finished their season fourth in the district.

changes had little effect on team

Even though the school experienced changes, and many teams were affected by being split in half, the golf team remained the same, with many returning players offering a smoother transition into the new season. Having equal experience under their belts, the players were able to focus on their game rather than on learning basic skills. This created an atmosphere for a greater sense of bonding and unity within the team. "The one thing that I will miss will be the familiarity with my teammates," said Senior Chris Olson. With the same uniforms as last year, consistency continued to be an important part of the team. Although two new teammates were added to the team, these members quickly adapted to the team's traditions. "Being a sophomore, I hope our traditions remain and look forward to the potential for next year," said Sophomore Allan Day. The routine breakfast at IHOP before the Regional Tournament furthered the team's unity from past seasons. The team won Districts and third place overall at the Regional Tournament.

team tries to regain state title

The Men's Volleyball team began the season with a daunting task, to defend the State Title. As with any new season, the team had to adjust to fill positions previously played by last year's Seniors. "We kept the same traditions, and tried to instill them in our Junior Varsity brothers," said Senior Keith O'Donnell. One thing the players had no control over, however, was the loss of Coach Eliasek, who led them to States. "We had to adjust to having a new coach, Mr. Spears, and his coaching style," said Senior Dan Koon. The men defeated Cosby and Monacan to earn the District Title and continued on to win the Regional title as well. In round one of the State Tournament, with a large crowd of student supporters, the men fought against Cox High School. Despite their close loss, the men were able to take one game from Cox. The Junior Varsity team, despite humble numbers and height, showed the potential to uphold the volleyball team's tradition of accomplishment. Despite the fact that they were nearly a completely new team, they finished their season with a 9-3 record. The Varsity team was able to refocus, reload, and repeat their undefeated regular season record, winning the Central Regional Title with a 26-1 record.

volleyball team adjusts to new size

Due to the opening of the new high school, the Women's Varsity Volleyball team underwent adverse changes. With the redistricting, half of last year's Varsity team transferred to Cosby. This left only nine girls on the team, forcing them to step it up and work even harder. Not only were games affected, practices were also harder. The lack of players made it difficult to practice game-time situations. Helping out the girls, the Men's Varsity team occasionally assisted in coaching the girls' practices. "Even though our team was small, it allowed us to become closer as a team," said Junior Brittany Slade. Due to the new size of the team, the girls had the responsibility to focus even more on the game. The Junior Varsity team also faced a troubling obstacle. There was only one returning player, while the other ten were new to the team. This required the team to start from scratch to build team unity. "Our team had a rough start, but we really began to work together in the end," said Sophomore Rebecca Rubin. Despite their small sizes, both teams helped each other throughout the season to become a better team.

coach applies creative source for team motivation

Cross country coach, Jim Wahrman, enlisted the help of a new assistant coach, Paul Smartschan. Smartschan motivated the team by using a new training technique, the cross-country relay. Similar to normal track relays in which each runner passes off a baton to one of his teammates, the cross country relays only varied because of the use of a different terrain. During the summer, the team ran a time-trial 5k race that would show the team's improvements as the season progressed. In order to recognize team improvements, Coach Smartschan awarded green and gold colored batons at the end of each meet. "The idea began as a way to recognize team and individual improvements," said Coach Smartschan. In addition to the team green and gold sticks, there was also a white stick, which was awarded to the runner that improved the most from one race to the next. The cross country team managed to maintain a friendly competition that, in the end, pushed them to accomplish more than they could have done otherwise.

the marching band pays tribute to New Orleans

After the devastation left behind in New Orleans by Hurricane Katrina, the marching band decided to tribute their season to the city. This required that the band learn the new techniques of jazz music. Their dedication to the show began two weeks before school started with seven-hour practices, five days a week. "The days were still hot, long, and full of hard work. The only thing that got the band through, was knowing that we would succeed in the competitions if we practiced hard," said Senior Christine Kohowski. Due to the opening of the new high school and the loss of last year's Seniors, the band's size greatly decreased. However, through much practice and hard work, the band was still able to place well at the Bluestone Baron and VBODA State Marching Band Festivals. "Of course we had to work a lot harder, but I think we were a good band regardless of the smaller size," said Sophomore Taylor Coyner. Even with the completion of football season, practices did not end. Performing in the Ukrop's Christmas Parade was a yearly tradition for the Marching Cavaliers. The marching band went on to perform in Disney World in Orlando, Florida in March.

pardi gras

the girls twirl to a mardi gras theme

Shannon Grosse and Kristen Felix

Due to the new Mardi Gras theme this season, the girls branched away from the standard color guard equipment used by most local high schools. During the first song they remained true to the traditional color guard techniques. Then, in the second song, entitled "Pardi Gras," they introduced an unconventional mixture of hoops, kites, and masks instead of using the traditional flags from the previous year. "I love getting new equipment each year. It keeps every show different and exciting, and our equipment this year was really unique," said Senior Shannon Grosse. Along with the new equipment, the atmosphere of the team changed with a disproportionate ratio of seniors to underclassmen. Half of the Color Guard were seniors while the other half comprised of sophomores and juniors. Even with a majority of upperclassmen on the team, the performance of the team was not affected. "It was great because it really helps to have friends with tons of experience who are willing to teach you," said Sophomore Bethany May. The team ended the year by accompanying the Marching Band as they marched in Disney World.

new coaching style scores big

Along with new additions from surrounding schools came new coaches with reformed techniques. Coaches Cason and Jenkins believed that perfection of the team would come by allowing each member to contribute their individual strengths. According to players, practices transformed from intense workouts to the game they fell in love with as kids. "I started playing because I would watch my older brother and father play in the driveway. Once I started, I can't remember a day I wasn't out there shooting hoops with my friends to relax after a long day," said Senior Corey Haring. Practices focused less on conditioning, and more on fundamentals, such as free throws, shooting, and lay-ups. This made the team flow easier during games. The less stressful practices were reflected by the team's successes on the court. "We play to have fun, and win while doing so," said Senior Keith O'Donnell.

a fresh start for both teams brings unity

Both the Varsity and Junior Varsity teams had to adjust to new team members. The entire JV team was brand new, and nine out of the twelve players were Freshmen. Although the majority of both teams were new, they conquered separation and became like a family. "I like the camaraderie. We get along so well and consider ourselves like family. If one of the girls was down everyone else rallied to pick her up," said Junior Chenell York. More evidence of team unity was shown before every game, whether warming up in the auxiliary gym or hanging out and enjoying one another's company. For each away game, to merge both Varsity and JV, the girls had a "big sister" program where they filled up goodie bags with candy, drinks, and goofy gifts. With this bonding activity, the teams united together to encourage support throughout their games. "I see us being successful this year, whether the scoreboard shows it or not," said Freshman Kristen Herceg. All players learned that a good team makes friends, but a great team becomes family.

wrestlers have to step it up to gain success

Besides losing players to the new high school, the wrestling team had to adjust to many changes. Along with the players, the coach from previous years also left to go to Cosby. Due to this, the team gained two new coaches, Coach Jim Albertson and Coach Jason Caddie. "Coach Albertson is a good coach with veteran experience, and Caddie knows his way around the mat, too," said Sophomore Travis Johnson. The addition of these coaches also brought new techniques to the team, helping to obtain more successes. Intense amounts of running and other workouts were essential to having a successful season. Months before school started, members of the wrestling teams began their training. "We had to work hard all season, including pre-season, and we had to eat a lot less," said Sophomore Jacob Hutchinson. The Varsity wrestling team concluded the season with an 11 and 7 record, and the Junior Varsity team ended with a 12 and 7 record.

Indoor Track was traditionally used as a conditioning tool to prepare athletes for spring sports. Due to the opening of the new high school, the team decreased in members. As well as losing members, the team gained several Freshmen, former Manchester athletes, and a German exchange student. Along with the new members, new inspiration for success was instilled in the team. "When I start feeling tired, I just think of my former teammates at Cosby and what I need to do to beat them," said Senior Chris Higby. Usually, athletes competed in the same events from one meet to another. This past season, due to the smaller team, the athletes were able to participate in new events. "I usually run the 500-meter, but this year I got to also participate in the long jump!" said Junior John Pomeroy. The athletes competing in new events experienced more success than expected at the beginning of the season. Both teams concluded their seasons at the Central Regional Meet with varying success among the individual members.

hip-hop dance team joins ranks of high school performers

In early September, Seniors Chrissy Hopkins, Erica Barnes, Ashley Mason, Shekinah Holmes, and Junior Ashley Parker created the idea for a new type of year-long team: a Hip-Hop Dance team. One day in September, the team founders were advertising their sponsor opening in the guidance department, when Mrs. Morrison overheard their plea. "I happened to be sitting in guidance and I said, 'I'll do it,'" said Morrison. Ms. Roberts, known to the team as 'Ms. Cookie', was also chosen as a sponsor for the team. Once the necessary paperwork was processed, auditions were held in late September. To the amazement of the five girls, more than fifty people showed up to try out. Callbacks were posted, and twenty-five girls and five boys were accepted. The team practiced once or twice a week and performed at school events, such as basketball games, football games, and pep rallies. According to Mrs. Morrison, the sponsors and founders simply wanted to establish a base in the school for its first year, but in following years they hope to enter into dance competitions.

Varsity Cheerleaders at Competition

With the loss of many past squad members to Cosby, the cheerleading squad was faced with many challenges. The Junior Varsity team only had one returning member, and Varsity was left with only ten members, leaving half of a squad to replace. Additionally, Coach Coats stepped down after the football and competition season due to personal reasons, leaving former high school cheerleader Meagan Baker as head coach. The practices began in August, when the squad brought in a choreographer to help with their routine. This was a change from previous years, when they went to camp to learn stunts and cheers. The squad continued throughout the season to perfect their competition routine and come together as a team. The squad overcame all obstacles that were thrown at them during the year to end up second in the Dominion District, and went onto the Regional competition to place eighth. "Even though we had a lot of drama, in the end, we all came together as a team and did really well at competition," said Sophomore Arielle Stiles.

dance team leaps over obstacles throughout season

As changes arose at the beginning of the dance season, the team knew they would have to step up to overcome the transitions. With only five returning members, the size of the team shrank considerably. "Our team was incredibly close this year. We worked together throughout the year to get through things that had the potential to dampen the season. I knew I had eight sisters to lean on when I sprained my ankle," said Junior Mallory Keene. Also, a new era was ushered in under coaches Mrs. Boyd and Mrs. Mehrer. However, the dance team proved their versatility at their annual dance camp in August. At Virginia Wesleyan College, all of the girls won "Best Team Routine" and "Best Home Routine," winning trips to perform in the Pro Bowl in Hawaii and the Capital One Bowl in Orlando. "Although the trips to perform in the Bowl games didn't work out, camp was a great way to start off the season. It showed us that we were just as strong as ever and gave us the confidence to show off all the routines at football games we'd already perfected," said Senior Kaley Remme.

a new addition changes the team's attitude towards winning

With the new soccer season came many adjustments. The team had to cope with learning the expectations of their new coach, Jonathan Gates. "We have a new coach who has brought a fresh attitude and mentality that I believe will take us further than previous years," said Senior Justin Grove. Nine Seniors make up the majority of the team, but only five were returning Varsity players. With so many Seniors on the team, it created a power house of leaders out on the field. Although there are quite a few new players, the team looked past their differences and became a strong unit. "It's hard to step into such a competitive group of individuals, but I was accepted quickly, and we have been very committed to having a successful season," said Senior Keith O'Donnell. Coach Gates was an influential part of the team's drive to succeed. He constantly pushed all of the players to put their best foot forward, while representing the comradery of the team. Coach Gates looked forward to seeing how far the team would go for the season.

scoring success through change

The season began for the Varsity and Junior Varsity soccer teams with a new coach, Shawn Martin. The Varsity team consisted of five Freshmen, three Sophomores, one Junior, and eleven Seniors. "The large number of Senior ladies on the team has given us a great team this year and a whole bunch of traditions to carry on to next year," said Sophomore Kathleen Kraines. At the beginning of the season, the Richmond Times-Dispatch wrote an article giving the soccer team a low ranking. However, the team proved the article to be incorrect. Even with a new coach and the team setback of Senior Emily Naret and Freshman Courtney Harwood both tearing their ACL before the season started, the team still pulled together and proved strong. As a form of team bonding, the ladies enjoyed going out to eat together at various restaurants. One team ritual before games was their team huddle. Once they were out on the field, they huddled together, while one player ran around the huddle and then dove into the middle, while the rest of the team screamed and got pumped for the game. The Varsity team ended their season with a 13-4 record.

Senior leadership teaches new and old how to succeed

After winning the Dominion District in the previous season, hopes were high for the Men's Tennis Team. Having lost numerous players to Cosby High School, the tennis players decided to only form one team as opposed to Varsity and Junior Varsity teams in past years. Only having one team gave other players a chance to step up their game. The team was led by eight Seniors who encouraged and taught the younger players new skills that increased the team's chances for success. Since they practiced every day, the team became a close knit group. Bus rides to away matches also served as a chance for the teammates to learn about one another and discover different players' passions for tennis. "I play because I love the sport. I love how it is a game of endurance, strength, and thought," said Junior Patrick Barranger. New players joined the team from different high and middle schools. The team building helped the men's tennis team play better during matches. They finished the season with a 13-0 record. The top members competed in the Dominion District Tournament where they defended their undefeated season.

Getting instructions from Coach Albertson, the men's tennis team prepares for the game against Matoaca. Everyone out on the team is there to support one another, and Coach Albertson knows how to make us work," said Senior Brad Fagan. The boys sweated in the sun while practicing before the match.

Senior Jordan Meland prepares for a hit. "The strength of the team is in the numbers. Against many teams we could play the lower half and still win."

"I look forward to seeing who is going to step up in the coming years and play in the upper ranks."

- Senior Kris Kirksey

Q & A

Would you consider tennis an individual sport or a team sport? Why?

"Both. It's an individual sport in the sense that each girl is playing her own match, but it's a team sport because we're all there for each other."

- Freshman
Sabrina Nordan

"It's a little bit of each. You have individual districts as well as team districts. And when you win a match, you're winning for the team."

Instead of repeating numbers when stating the scores, tennis players use a single word to describe the score. 'Love' means zero, and 'all' means that the opponents have the same score. One player must win a total of ten games, and they must win by at least two matches.

girls tennis team shares dinner before matches

Mental preparation was not the only thing to consider before a match. Twice a week, before every game, the team had a tradition of sharing a meal, whether at someone's house or at a restaurant. Every day that the team had a match scheduled, each team member coordinated outfits, including their plain white team uniform. Another time, the team spent the previous night tie-dying t-shirts to play in the following day. Along with the uniform making, the players ate an assortment of carbohydrate-rich foods, including pastas and fruits and also traded spirit bags. "Every match we get goody bags with candy, beads, and lots more. It gets us excited for the match," said Freshman Sabrina Nordan. As well as having matching uniforms and dinner parties, the women's tennis team shared a cheer before every game. "Before a match begins, captains yell 'C', everyone else yells 'Hill' and all together we yell 'Cavs'," said Senior Alexa Durnwirth. These team-building exercises helped to bring the team together and form a unity that would otherwise not have been as strong.

players use differences to form team

The Varsity baseball team was no stranger to diversity. They had members from each class, all with varying skill levels. Many of the players even played multiple positions. Junior Jeff Voreh, for example, played on third base, in the outfield, and pitched. Many other members played two different positions. In order to unite the varying personalities, the players had a "big stick." This was a regulation wooden bat painted in green and gold. "Whoever had the bat picked a player they thought was working hard and hung it on their team locker until the next game. Each game the 'big stick' was passed on," said Sophomore Alex Mait. This bat was not used in games or practice since it was wooden and high school leagues play with metal bats. Coach Zyglocke also established a system to encourage sportsman-like conduct, and prevent any conflict within the varying players. "Every time you used foul language you had to place a quarter in the swear box," said Freshman Nick Santalucia. This applied to both the Junior Varsity and Varsity teams. The money collected was used to fund an end of the season party for the entire baseball program.

addition of new players adds variety

With the arrival of spring weather, the softball team began practicing for their upcoming season. Even with only one returning Varsity player, the girls were united through an increase in school spirit. On game days, the girls on both the Varsity and Junior Varsity teams could be seen around the building displaying their team pride. "We dress up on game days so that we look more professional," said Freshman Alex Roberts. Most days when there was not a game, the softball teams were busy practicing for the next game. While at these two hour long practices, the girls would work on skills such as hitting, fielding, and endurance. "Practices are fun because along with the work we get to goof off," said Freshman Trish Averil. As a way to further their bond and allow them to grow as a team, the players occasionally held team sleepovers. The team sleepovers tightened the team bond by allowing the girls to get to know each other off of the field in order to improve their individual games on the field. Throughout the season, the softball players felt they had truly grown together as a team.

track is back

team depth improves district chances

Jamie Jerabek

With the arrival of spring weather, the track team began practicing for their upcoming meets. The women's team, which consisted of students in all four grade levels, went undefeated and had a shot at the District Championship. This success was due, in part, to the depth of the team. Because there were so many events involved in track, the team's runners were sometimes spread out thinly over multiple events. The women's team, however, incorporated several runners in each event, which improved chances to do well in that particular event. The experience of some of the Junior and Senior girls on the team was beneficial to the success they achieved. These upperclassmen led the team and were familiar with the events that they excelled in. With more team members, the boys were not required to participate in as many events as the girls. "The boy's team didn't boast the depth in runners that the girl's team did," says Coach Jim Wahrman. Because of the presence of Freshmen and Sophomore runners, the coaches predicted that the ability of the men's team would improve in following years.

the math and science specialty school expands

The Mathematics and Science High School has generally been thought of as only involving math and science. Teachers and students, however, have tried to change this stereotype. New courses, along with increased interest and involvement in school events, have created an expansion of the Math and Science program. Four new classes were added to the list of available courses to all students including Bio-ethics/Philosophy. "People need to be able to handle ethical issues well. They need to be able to weigh all the pros and cons," said Mr. Burns. The expansion, however, was not centered only on courses. The new Math and Science Community Council, headed by Mrs. Deavers, and Outreach, headed by Mrs. Wood, are both involved in the community. The Math and Science program has also seen an increase in prospective students. The number of overall applicants has increased eleven percent.

the band's dedication leads to superiority

In hopes of furthering their music career, members of the Cavalier Band added many strenuous practices to their schedule. Through all of these practices their efforts were shown during concerts and marching in parades. With this came the satisfaction of feeling confident in their performance. "This was my last year of band and it was really groovy. I learned a lot, and enjoyed the performances," said Senior Timmy Beavers. The goal of many students was to progress to the Advanced Jazz Band from the Concert Band. Along with the concerts, the band performed at the District Band Festival in February and were called "Windsymphony." As in previous years, the band took a field trip to perform outside of the state in a parade. Many students participated in the weeklong trip to Disney World in Orlando, Florida.

Through much dedication and hard work, the chorus and show choir groups were able work together to reach their goals. However, these ambitions were only accomplished through hours of practice after school and on weekends. "Show choir was a lot more out-of-class-work than past choirs I've participated in, but when we got to see our show at competition, it was obvious it had paid off," said Junior Jordan Fish. The new chorus teacher, Ms. Thomas, was also able to encourage and help the students persevere through their practices. The mixed show choir group, New Dimensions, sponsored the "Show Choir Classic," in February and were able to perform their new showcase to the public for the first time. The all-girls show choir group, Iridescence, along with New Dimensions, also made a trip to Nashville, Tennessee to perform at the Grand Ole Opry.

plan a play

drama department exercises steps in making a play

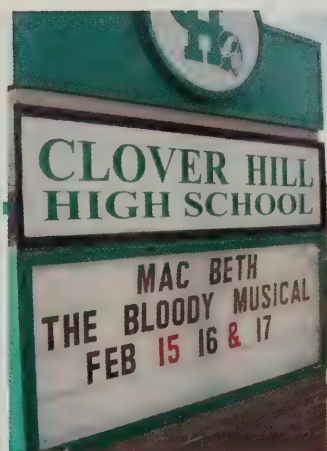

As many plays as the theater department put on, not many know what happened in between conceiving the idea for a play and actually executing the production. All productions began with one step: choosing a play. The next step involved deciding on a date and time to hold auditions and in what manner the auditions were held. In order to promote the production and attract actors, advertisements were developed. The auditions were held, and the applicants had either a dry-read, an unprepared reading of a script, or a monologue to memorize. The performers were called and the cast was decided upon. The director then picked the time and date of the practices. The director and producer chose a time and date for the play to be shown. The production was shown multiple times, which catered to those who could not attend on one night.

As the field for career artists expanded, the Art Department initiated many events and projects that would put students on the path of college as well as life after college. In various AP art classes, students created a twelve piece portfolio, which many liberal arts colleges require and recommend. In March, the Art Department organized an "Art Career Day," in which artists from varying backgrounds instructed and informed students on everyday life and requirements of being a professional artist. The five Art 1 classes, composed mainly of Freshmen, questioned the students on their future prospects. "Do you want to seriously pursue art as your dominant area of study?" asked Art and Photography teacher, Donna Stables. "If the students want to do anything in the art field, they need to start now," said Stables. Teachers also traveled to local middle schools, giving the students guidance on their future courses.

a taste of the world

students learn more than grammar in languages

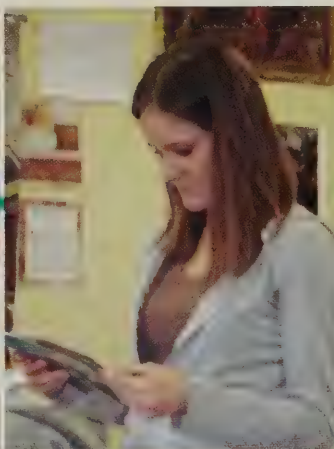

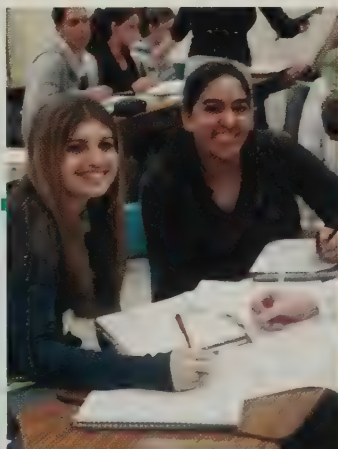

While many students took foreign languages to help fulfill diploma requirements or to help with future careers, some students took a language to learn a new culture or perspective on life. Students in foreign languages not only learned speaking and grammar techniques, but also learned about the traditions of the languages they were studying. Along with this knowledge came the tolerance for other ideas, as students learned that people all over the world have a variety of opinions on important topics. "Taking French has broadened my perspective because I have learned about African cultures, new music, and cultural differences that are important to understand in the world. French is something I'll continue in college," said Senior Stephanie Clark. Teachers promoted these ideas with out-of-school activities that allowed students to share their cultures, such as an international potluck dinner to which students and teachers brought foods from other cultures.

Seniors Chris Olsen and Justin Grove smile for the camera during marketing. "It is really great to have such extensive marketing classes, which give me a great foundation, at Clover Hill," said Olsen. Students found marketing both enjoyable and beneficial to future careers.

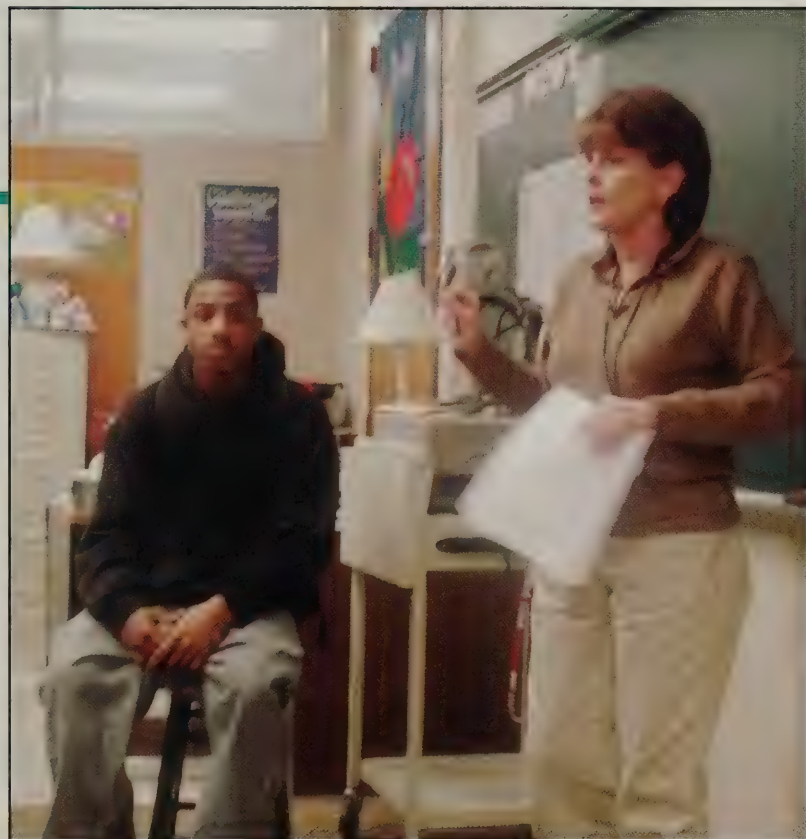

Senior Justin Williams and Ms. Rhodes discuss a topic during marketing. "Marketing has helped me realize how to be successful after high school," said Williams. Marketing teachers were always ready to help when students had problems.

marketing prepares students for future

Marketing was one of the most popular electives, as it had been for several years. This was due to the fact that many students wanted to pursue a career in business, and marketing provided a foundation that would help later in college. Additionally, marketing was a practical choice for students who weren't planning on going into business, as marketing provided skills everyone could use later in life. "Marketing class promotes a unique perspective of the world. With outstanding teachers and a progressive curriculum I now feel empowered to take charge in the modern business environment," said Senior Jordan Wilson. The DECA Club also provided the opportunity for marketing skills to be used. Students met during their marketing classes and used role-playing to model real life situations. DECA capped off the year with Regional and State competitions.

musicians get involved in additional programs

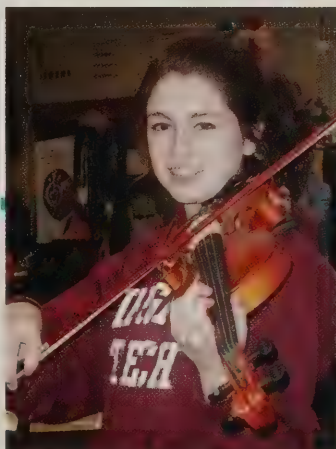

Being a member of the orchestra requires dedication and patience. Musicians practiced four to six hours a week on average, but this only included school preparation. Many of the orchestra members also played in the Richmond Youth Symphony Orchestra, which required additional rehearsal time. "I usually practice one to two hours on a week day, and four to six hours a day on the weekends. This is about eight times the requirement of orchestra class," said Junior Jung Ho Shin. As in years past, the Concert Orchestra received Superior ratings at the annual District Festival. The musicians' practice contributed to their individual success in the All-County Orchestra auditions. Several members of the orchestra class performed in the All-County concert, maintaining the program's tradition of excellence.

Senior Rachel Rice poses before she performs a solo on her violin. "I enjoy playing music more than listening. The sound is much greater on stage," said Rachel Rice. She has played in the Richmond Youth Symphony Orchestra for years.

Senior Lisa Newill-Smith practices the concert music on her viola. "I love going to the symphony, although I also love playing my own music," said Newill-Smith. She plans on double majoring in music and foreign affairs in college.

Senior Justin Williams displays perfect form while practicing.

Senior Solomon Choi strains to play the challenging notes on his sheet music.

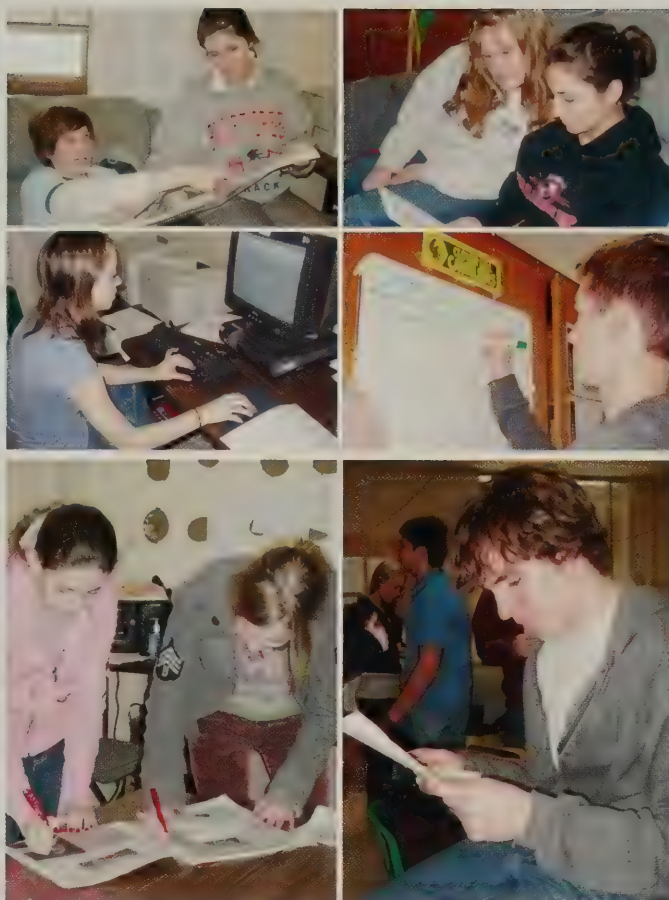

Students show their enthusiasm for orchestra before practice begins.

Editor in Chief Mary Grace Coalter works diligently on the computer in order to produce the next edition of the newspaper.

Senior Farren Larson and Sophomore Aspen Debyah correct mistakes before finalizing the paper. "We have to make sure we catch every error," said Debyah. Each editor is responsible for proof-reading different sections.

Senior Lauren Hutchinson and Senior Christine Kohowski edit a rough draft of an article to check for mistakes.

Junior Zach Crizer lists the stories that are due for the next deadline.

Junior Will Anderson sorts out surveys to develop a story line for his article. "It is important to get varying viewpoints from a range of students, in order to have an accurate story," said Anderson. This was Anderson's first year on the Newspaper staff.

students deliver news to their peers

In order to produce an excellent paper each nine weeks, the Cavalier Chronicle relied on the strong writing skills instilled in the staff. Each member had to show strong writing abilities, as well as responsibility and reliability, before becoming part of the staff. Each editor was paired with a different staff member every nine weeks, and taught them the techniques needed to produce an up-to-date paper. The editors collaborated with their staff members in order to finish their stories by the assigned deadlines. Every section in the paper, such as the Sports section, had its own editor, which ensured that there were no errors in the stories. With the combined efforts of every staff member, the editors, and the Editor-In-Chief, the newspaper provided school news to the student body, as well as the faculty, each nine weeks.

The Freshmen kicked off their high school careers in a new environment filled with a number of new activities. From block scheduling to Homecoming week, the ninth graders experienced their first events unique to high school. "I liked Homecoming the best because I had so much fun with all of my friends," said Freshman Alex Brown. In order to get more involved, Freshmen tried out for sports teams and joined clubs. "Classes are much longer and less crowded, which is great because it gives everyone time to learn everything clearly. Adjusting to the block schedule was hard at first, but once you got the hang of it, it was a piece of cake," said Freshman Nick Santalucia. Although they were new to high school, many Freshmen had already begun to prepare for college. Many do not know the career they want to pursue, but they strive to work hard to keep their options open with good grades and extracurricular activities.

Freshman year is about trying new things. What was your favorite event in high school that was not offered in middle school?

"Getting the chance to go to Homecoming was my favorite thing about my first year here. Homecoming gave me a chance to see how a real dance is."

- Freshman Amber Reed

"I like having a full seven minutes between classes now. It gives me more time to go to my locker, talk to my friends, and still make it to my trailer classes on time."

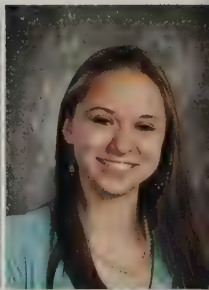

- Freshman Chris Stefano

"I enjoyed participating on the wrestling team, a sport my middle school didn't have. It is something new to try, which is what high school is about. I like to try new things."

Texting... 123... Texting

Students have become quite text-perts at organizing and arranging their social lives through their cell phones. Students can often be spotted in the parking lot after school, fingers flying across their keypads of their side-kicks and razr phones. Some find that text-messaging is a lot more convenient and faster than talking on the phone. "I love texting because it is so much easier than picking up my phone to call someone, especially when I don't have a lot of time," said Sophomore Kate Miller.

"I went over my texting limit by 1600 texts last month and owed my parents 183 dollars," said Eramian.

"I text a lot when I need to talk to my friends and I can't call them in public," said Ruth.

Though school boundaries have changed, students have had no trouble meeting new friends. "I have made friends very quickly which really helped with the switch from Midlothian High School," said Sophomore Brittany Snider. School activities such as SMAC and Homecoming have helped Snider feel more at home. Other students from Manchester and Midlothian High share similar views and look forward to wearing green and gold for the rest of their high school career.

Advertising and friends' opinions about popular books and movies often influence a lot of teenagers. Thus they become more curious and rush to the movie theater to watch a brandnew blockbuster or spend their free time being caught up in an adventurous novel, not paying attention to anything else. Fascinated by the new arrivals, teenagers kept talking about their favorites, and created a new circle of fans.

Picking his favorite Stephen King books in the library, Senior Scott Racette takes his time to read each one of them. "Stephen King portrays the world in a vividly imaginable way," said Racette. He discovered his love for thrillers his Freshman year.

Senior Kim Rogers, Junior Jen Harrison and Senior Jie Hou are fascinated with the book collection in the library. "I am a classical nerd! I live for Harry Potter! But on the more serious side I really like Tim O'Brien's stuff," said Rogers.

nobody saw that...

Everyone has that one time in his or her life that something totally embarrassing happens. Whatever these events may be, they never seem to be forgotten.

"I was chasing after one of my friends who is a couple inches shorter than me and she ran under a clothes-line. I didn't see it and ran right into it."

-Junior Sarah Clementson

"Some friends and I got stopped by the cops in Brandermill. It felt like everyone I knew drove by and saw us."

-Freshman Tyler Groves

"One day in calculus class I fell asleep leaning on my hand and my arm slipped off the desk. I fell on the floor and everything on my desk went flying everywhere. I woke up on the floor with everyone staring at me."

-Senior Tim Dietz

"I work at Chick-fil-A because I am saving money for college," said Junior Jacob Lassiter.

"I don't really like working at A&N because the hours are bad, and I don't get paid very much," said Senior Nathan Eramian.

part time jobs

For many teenagers, expenses such as gas, going out with friends, and electronic devices, such as cell phones and I-pods, begin to add up. Now that their children have grown older, parents stop lending them money and instruct them to "learn the value of a dollar." In order to earn some extra spending money, many students choose to work at a part-time job.

Lindsay Piper

"I love working at Tropical Smoothie because my co-workers are so much fun to be around," said Sophomore Katie Mehaffey.

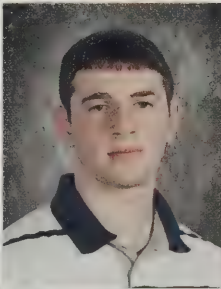

Running a credit card transaction for a dinner bill at Dolce Vita, Junior Paige Knowlson focuses on her task during a busy Friday night dinner rush. "Sometimes Friday and Saturday nights can get kind of hectic, but overall, I love my job and the people I work with." Knowlson continued her hostessing job at Dolce Vita in hopes of becoming a waitress when she turned eighteen.

sophomores

No longer at the bottom of the totem pole, Sophomores returned to school with much on their minds. The first thing almost all looked forward to was beginning to take drivers education in preparation for their licenses. "Driving is something I have looked forward to ever since I was younger, and now that it is finally here, it makes me feel more independent," said Sophomore Kelsey Eissler. Other Sophomores anticipated being able to get a job and earn an income. Another event to look forward to was turning 16. Sophomores had even more to think about in preparation for Junior year. A lot of thought went into scheduling for the year ahead, with AP classes and the Tech Center to consider. "I am really excited about becoming an upperclassman, because next year we will have an opportunity to go to the Tech Center and take steps towards our future careers," said Sophomore Jocelyn Tomsic.

Dodgeball Daze

Since the release of the movie Dodgeball: A True Underdog Story in 2004, the sport has become increasingly popular. Professional dodgeball tournaments have appeared on ESPN as well as other sports networks. Many students participated in clubs and tournaments outside of school. "I get most people out by catching their balls," said Senior Jake Hentges. In November, several students participated in a Chick-Fil-A sponsored dodgeball tournament at the Richmond Convention Center. "My team was called the Purple People Eaters at the Chick-Fil-A tournament," said Senior Emily Naret.

day in the life

Finally becoming upperclassmen, Juniors gained new privileges along with completing the hardest of their high school years. Possibly the biggest privilege was being able to drive to school every day. No longer did students have to rely on what was most commonly referred to as "The Cheese" as a means of transportation. Along with this new found freedom came the pressure of doing well in their classes in preparation for college. "I found that looking at colleges made me even more excited about graduating," said Junior Tyler Vance. Many students took the SAT for the first time and felt the pressure of AP classes. "Even with all the preparation, the SAT's were still very challenging," said Junior Lauren Glass. Although Junior year was difficult, it was accompanied by a variety of other new activities, such as the Powder Puff game, and Prom, that made Junior year exciting. After much hard work, Juniors anticipated becoming the next graduating class.

How has finally being able to drive to school made this year different from the past?

It's a lot easier because I live 20 minutes away. Also, I don't have to depend on my parents to drive me anymore.

- Junior Dan Hill

You don't hear the loud people that ride the bus, and driving to school is so much more relaxing than riding the bus.

- Junior Capron Scott

I get to school earlier, and I can chill in the Commons. It's more convenient to drive because I play sports. There's more freedom.

Pulling out of his special senior spot, Senior Brad Howlett tries to beat the afternoon rush. "I enjoy being able to come to school late and not have to deal with finding a parking spot because one is already reserved for me," said Howlett. He was able to beat the traffic each afternoon that week without leaving for school early in the mornings.

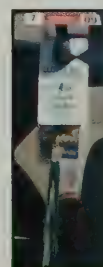

senior X-ing

This year, the upper senior lot was relocated to the bottom row of the faculty parking lot. The special senior spots were also moved. With an overwhelmingly large senior class, parking in these lots and the main senior lot was always crowded, but a well-appreciated privilege, and a well-deserved change from the gravel filled pit.

Senior Shelly Faulkner pulls out of the senior parking lot.

construction junction

Beginning in July, road crews began construction on the Westbound lanes of Hull Street Rd. The construction, although aimed at solving the traffic issues that plagued the main road, caused some problems among students who drove to school. The construction lasted just over one year. Although work on the westbound lanes ended in late November, the work on the eastbound lanes didn't end until late summer of 2007. The widening also included adding a turn lane into the school and sidewalks along Hull Street.

The boys of River City Sound serenade Mrs. Goble to advertise their Valentine's Day singing telegram. "The boys were great to work with, and seeing the look on everyone's faces was priceless," said Sophomore Aaron Brooks. The singing telegrams were a fundraiser to raise money for the new all boys choir.

With the addition of Cosby High School to the Dominion District, boundaries to the remaining Chesterfield County Schools were shifted. Clover Hill received students transferred primarily from Manchester and Midlothian High Schools. The integration of students from throughout the county broadened opportunities for students to participate in school activities.

seniors

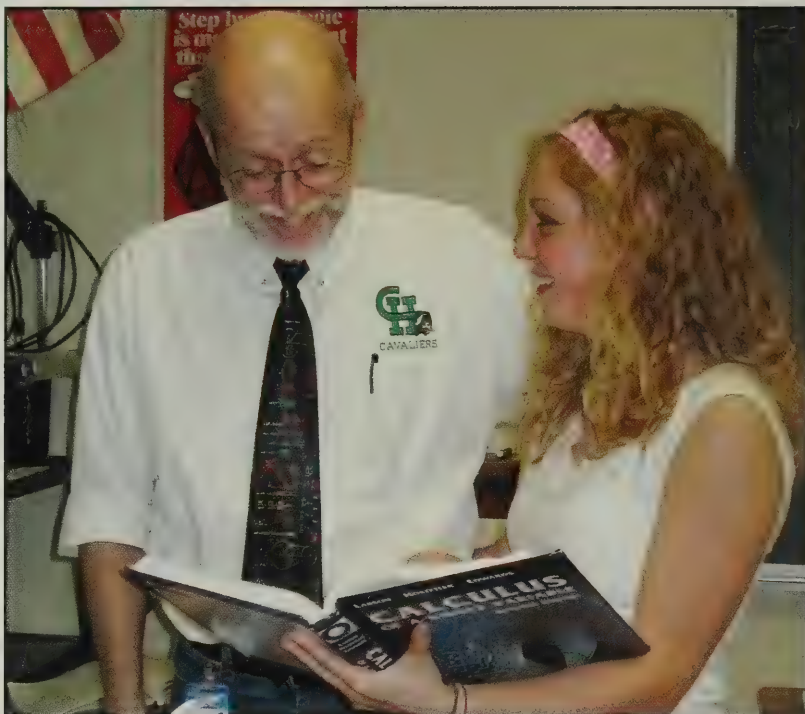

With the division of Clover Hill, the Senior class was the only class to stay united with 544 members. The Seniors seemed to be closer than previous years, helping each other through tougher classes and deciding on the perfect college or career. "Being a Senior is amazing. It's really an honor to lead such a great class, and it will be exciting but sad to see everyone head off in their own direction after graduation," said Senior Class President Esther Kraines. The Seniors also got to enjoy the benefits of Senior privileges, including early release, the Senior parking lot, and the Seniors lunch line. As the year came to a close, they got to enjoy Senior Takeover Day, Prom, the Senior Banquet, the class picnic and pool party, and Baccalaureate Ceremony. These events helped the Senior class reminisce on their years together and look forward to their futures.

■ Katherine Orth, Caitlyn Baker, and Lacey Eramian

What is your favorite part of being a Senior?

Being a Senior is great because of all the privileges that we get. The workload is really hard, but I know it will pay off once I get to college."

- Senior Stephen Kaerwer

The best part about being a Senior is looking forward to college next year. We've been counting down the days to graduation since the first day of school."

- Senior Kristen Felix

"The best part about being a Senior is that all of the hard-work is finally paying off."

"Words cannot even describe what an awesome experience Senior Leadership Day was. It held a very special place in my heart for teachers."

- Senior James McClees

"Senior Leadership Day was my cup of tea. The students received a thorough understanding of mathematics and learned a plethora of life lessons."

- Senior Kevin Fitzpatrick

"Being Officer Corbin for the day was probably the best part of my Senior year. 'Sir, you are under arrest!'"

- Senior Lauren Reed

"I try to dance wherever I am, even if I am teaching a class, I still try to bust a move."

- Senior Eric Early

Seniors enjoy each other's company during their break. "Senior Leadership Day marked one of the most memorable days of my high school career," said Senior Nick Abrahamson. On this day, the Seniors had the opportunity to take over the position of their choice and had a hands-on experience for a typical day in that type of job.

As a lunch lady, it was informative and fun to see the action behind-the-scenes of the cafeteria. I discovered a new appreciation for all the hard work they undertake each day, working in the grease. GO TEAM TOT!

taking the reigns

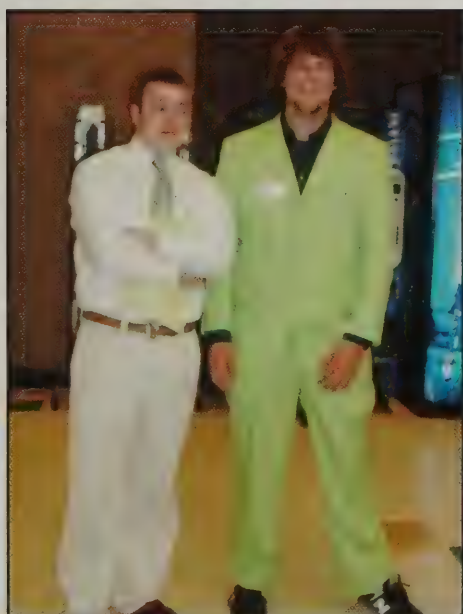

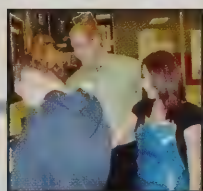

Seniors experience a day in the life of our faculty

As tradition serves, the Seniors were given the opportunity to lead the school for a day as teachers, custodians, lunch ladies, and administrators. The Seniors were able to get a taste for the lives of the faculty. The administration kept the school in order while having fun of their own by implementing code names for each other over the walkie-talkie correspondence. The teachers were able to successfully instruct the lessons while adding a new flavor of entertainment and enjoyment for the students. "Senior Leadership Day was a fun and interactive day that allowed our young and ambitious Seniors to experience the everyday task of our hard working Clover Hill employees and gain a sense of respect for their duties," said Senior Caleb Johnson. The Seniors were also able to experience the behind-the-scenes jobs of the faculty that keep the school running by shadowing the custodians, lunch ladies, policeman, and security patrol. They were even able to successfully dictate the students through an unexpected fire drill. Although it was only for a day, the Seniors proved capable of running the school.

"Four years of hardwork finally paid off. The pool party was amazing. Instead of going to class, I spent time with my friends and the snow cones were amazing."

- Senior Kim Rogers

"The picnic was a great time to hang out and chill with everyone. It was one of the best ways to wrap up a memorable Senior year."

- Senior Andrew Fogg

"The pool party was a lot of fun. It was great hanging out with friends that I probably won't see after graduation. Plus, the snow cones were extremely delicious."

- Senior Sam Strachan

"The picnic was a great time to get together with everyone for the last time before we all go our separate ways."

- Senior Esther Lee

Enjoying the picnic, Seniors relax in the warm weather and reminisce on the days when they used to pull together parachutes in elementary school. By being able to spend time together, the Seniors were able to gain even more memories and enjoy their last days before graduation.

It was a good experience serving our Seniors and spending time with them for one of the last times. Serving them food and hanging outside was really fun!

- Junior Patricia Ahn

Seniors work together to raise the giant parachute off of the ground. Various activities were held for Seniors during the picnic including the parachute and a pick-up game of ultimate frisbee.

splish & splash

Seniors take the day off to enjoy their last few days of school

After the Senior Scholarship Assembly, the Seniors headed down to the football field for the annual Senior Picnic. A variety of food including barbeque, baked beans, and coleslaw was served to the Seniors by the Junior Marshalls. After receiving their food, they enjoyed their lunch out on the football field or in the bleachers of the stadium. "The food was delicious, but the brownies were definitely my favorite," said Senior Logan Felps. During the picnic, Seniors interacted in a variety of activities including playing soccer, flying kites, maneuvering a giant parachute, and socializing with friends. After the picnic, the Seniors changed into their bathing suits and headed over to the Woodlake Swim and Racquet Club. While at the pool, Seniors enjoyed swimming, playing volleyball, eating snow cones, and lounging in the sun. After celebrating at the Senior Picnic and Pool Party, the Seniors left with more high school memories and a relaxed feeling from a day spent with their classmates.

senior banquet

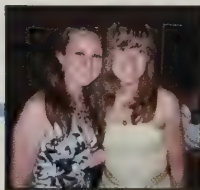

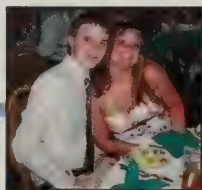

students reflect on one last high school memory

In order to celebrate their final achievements before graduating, Seniors gathered one final time at the Holiday Inn Koger Center on May 29. Although the Banquet did not officially start until 7:00, many Seniors arrived early to ensure they received a good table, surrounded by their friends and peers. Before dinner started, Senior treasurer Jamie Clair introduced Senior president Esther Kraines who congratulated the class via satellite since she was unable to attend the Banquet due to a soccer game. After dinner, Senior Advisory Council officer Jonathan Walker offered a comical speech on the class history before Senior sponsor, Mr. Martin, announced the Senior Superlatives. The Banquet concluded with a slideshow presentation. "The Senior Banquet was kind of the culmination of all of our years here at Clover Hill. The slideshow really showed how we have all grown and been united as a class, which is one thing I'll really miss," said Senior Lauren Ruiz. Seniors left the Banquet with many moments to remember.

"All the Senior activities made the end of the year go by faster and made it a lot more enjoyable," said Senior Carter Jennings. The slideshow was prepared by the Senior class officers and was composed of pictures submitted by various students.

"Thank you, Clover Hill. Four years of procrastination paid off, with a nice comical speech from Jonathan Walker and a big piece of chocolate cake."

- Senior Katelin O'Brien

"It was fun seeing everyone together for the last time and going back through the past couple of years in the Senior slideshow."

- Senior Greg Dodt

"It was great being able to hang out with my friends for one last night before the last week of school and graduation."

- Senior Melissa Holmes

"It was great to hear Jonathan Walker's speech about our class history. It brought back all the fun memories of our youth!"

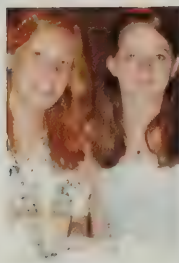

- Senior Nina Ternate

For allowing me to remember the times of Vortex and Skip-It, the Senior Banquet was absolutely amazing. I don't think I will ever share such a momentous event with so many people I love again.

- Senior Danny Montrose

Left: Seniors Sara Kilgore, Tim Earley, and Emily Rosko smile before eating their food. Seniors chose from prime rib, chicken, or a vegetarian dish.

"I'm glad we had the Math and Science Banquet because it was a way for everyone's personality to be shown. The slide-show was a great touch."

- Senior Jessie Prior

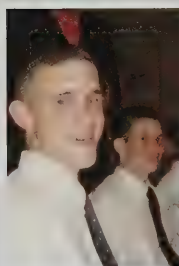

"The Math and Science Banquet was a chance to reflect on my past years in high school and a great way to remember all the fun times."

- Senior Brad Tobias

"I was really glad to see everyone receive their special awards. Creating the superlatives was easy because it was really easy to think of everyone's quirks."

- Senior Katie Wall

"The food and fellowship was great. Everybody had time to reflect on four great years."

- Senior Jeff Smith

I had a lot of fun at the Math/Sci Banquet because I got to talk to teachers and other students that I hadn't spoken to all year and listen to Jordan and Katie's great jokes.

- Senior Katherine Orth

Right: The Math and Science Senior class gathers together for a group picture. Throughout the past four years, the students grew to be extremely close to one another.

As a yearly tradition the Math and Science Senior Banquet served as a way for the Senior class to spend time with all their fellow classmates before graduating.

let's get together

seniors receive quirky superlatives at Math/Sci banquet

As the end of the year drew near, the Senior Class of the Mathematics and Science High School came together one last time. This last chance to see everyone together before Graduation was the Math/Sci Senior banquet, held at the Sheraton Hotel. Chosen as hosts of the banquet were Seniors Jordan Wilson and Katie Wall. The evening consisted of a buffet style dinner followed by the distribution of unique superlatives. Before the food was served, the Seniors had the opportunity to socialize and take pictures with all of their friends. "Seeing everyone together for the last time was great, and Jordan and Katie made great hosts for the evening," said Senior Andrew Fogg. Every student was given an award based on personality or some event that happened during their high school career. "My superlative was so random that at first I was confused about it, but then I realized that it captured my randomness," said Senior Shelton Fraher. All together the night proved to be a great way for all the Seniors to reminisce on their high school life and get ready for their next step.

On June 10 graduation was held at VCU's Siegel Center. The members of the graduating class filed into their seats accompanied by music played by the band. After opening speeches from Superintendent of schools, Dr. Marcus J. Newsome, and members of the Chesterfield County School Board congratulating the school on its top three percent finish in the Newsweek top High Schools list, student speeches began with the theme of shoes. The Mathematics and Science Center speaker, Jordan Wilson, entertained the audience with a comical speech about leaving old shoes behind. He advised his classmates to shed the light-up, velcro sneakers of their childhood in preparation for the next step. Next, Salutatorian Stephanie Clark followed with a speech about finding the right pair of shoes for the paths ahead. Afterwards, an inspirational speech was given by Valedictorian Melissa Holmes advising graduates to seek the "undiscovered paths" in life. After the speeches the most anticipated moment arrived, the distribution of diplomas. Over five hundred Seniors walked across the stage and received their diplomas. Finally, the graduates turned their tassels and threw their hats up into the air in celebration of their success.

--Paige Knowlson and Lindsay Piper

"Now is not the time to settle down comfortably, it's the time to branch out into paths undiscovered."

--Valedictorian Melissa Holmes

"My fellow graduates, remember you're never fully dressed without a smile, so wear the shoes that make you happy, so you can smile all the days of your life."

--Salutatorian Stephanie Clark

Did you know...

- $4,503,000 in scholarship money was given out to the Senior class
- 522 Seniors graduated in the Class of 2007
- 212 students graduated with a GPA of 3.75 or higher
- 102 of the graduating Seniors have already earned at least fifteen college credits

Do not go where the path may lead; go instead where there is no path and leave a trail.

What was your favorite activity in high school?

"Pep rallies were the best! Since school started later, pep rallies were usually at 8:00 am-before school! What a great way to get energized and start the day!"

- Donna Stables

"Class plays. Each year my class was responsible for producing a full 'evening of entertainment.' One year, my class did a comedy review that we had written. It was a take-off on the faculty, and it was hilarious!"

Describe your most embarrassing high school moment.

"Well, I looked similar to one of the teachers (I should say the young and trendy teacher) at my school, and she was dating one of the basketball coaches. He thought I was her and came up behind me and put his arm around me and said, "I had a really good time last night." When he realized it was me, we both screamed and ran the other way."

NAHS Senior President Alexa Durnwirth and Senior Vice President Lindsay Forte prepare a package for the Dominican Republic.

Seniors Kelly Blanchard and Caitlin Spencer organize the art supplies.

The members of the National Art Honor Society pose with the teddy bears that were sent to the Dominican Republic to encourage children to develop their art skills. "Sending art supplies to children who had never even seen a coloring book was definitely a good feeling," said Senior Alexa Durnwirth. As a community project, the students also taught art at the Lucy Corr Nursing Home.

Senior Ian Melling and his Japanese exchange student recycle papers from the teachers' boxes

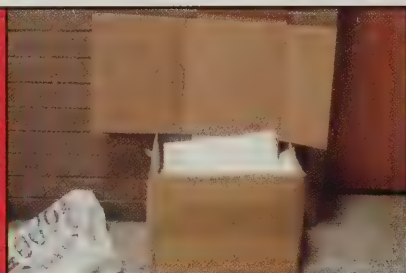

Senior Ian Melling, Junior Will Anderson, and Junior Forrest Potter pose for a picture with their recycling bins during a club meeting. The club was able to contribute many community service hours to help the environment throughout the entire year.

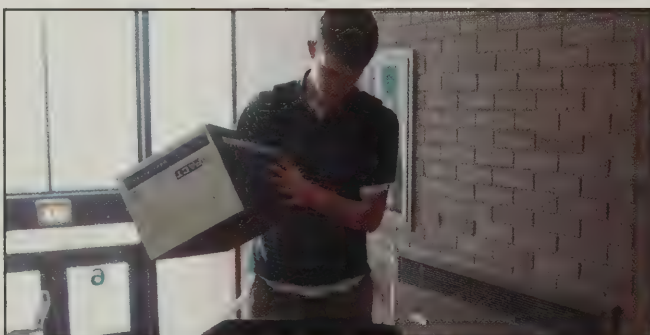

Senior Historian Amanda Wilson pushes a recycling bin down the hall.

Recycling boxes are left outside of the classrooms for the club members to pick up after school.

Junior Will Anderson pulls his recycling bin around the hallway after school. "I joined the club because I feel like everyone has a duty to take care of the environment," said Anderson. Mrs. Huber, the club sponsor, helped organize the recycling bins with students.

Senior President Jeff Smith recycles materials after school. "Environmental Club is a great club to participate in, and I was able to help the school through recycling," said Smith. Students worked every Wednesday picking up recycling bins from various classrooms.

Many teachers support the Environmental Club by creating boxes and encouraging students to recycle their papers.

Juniors serving at the annual Midlothian Food Festival take a break to sample the ice cream.

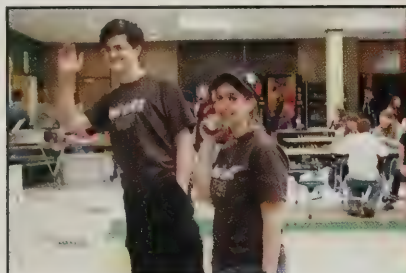

Club members gather at the Brandermill Retirement Home on Halloween. "It was really great to get to visit the people in the retirement home because they didn't have trick-or-treaters to come to their houses. They were really into it, too, and they dressed up as wizards and princesses," said Senior Sam Platania. Every year, Interact made candy bags for the members of the retirement home and visited in costume to spread the Halloween spirit.

Ms. Greene discusses future projects with club members.

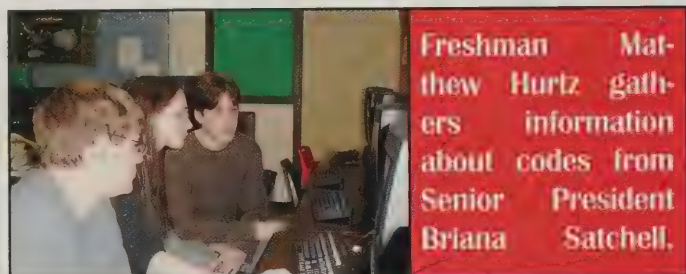

Together, Senior Co-Presidents Iffie Ikem, Christina Choi, and active member Senior Dan Koon work hard to finish up their project. "Red Cross really gives its members a sense of accomplishment. We do a lot to help out the community, and the pay off is great," said Koon. The members pulled off two successful blood drives along with letters and bookmarks to injured soldiers.

Freshman Matthew Hurtz gathers information about codes from Senior President Briana Satchell.

Senior Matthew Brown attempts to solve a difficult problem.

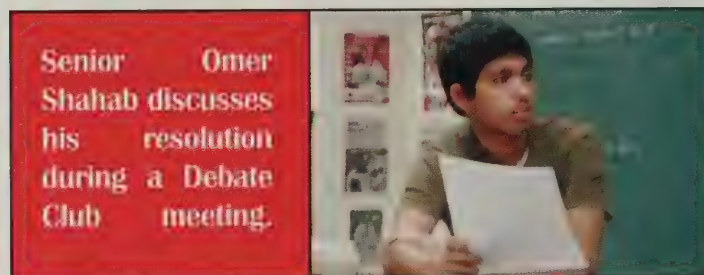

The team meets every Wednesday to have fun and share their ideas with each other. "I love the Programming Team's drive and determination," said Senior Briana Satchell. Members came to learn competitive programming skills for individual and group competitions.

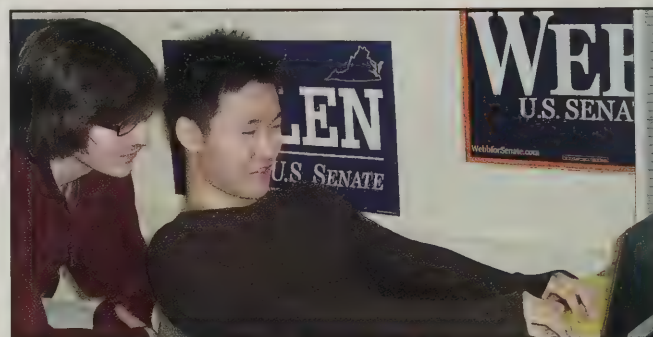

debate team

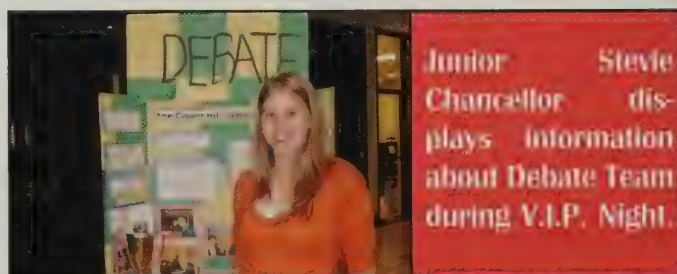

Row 1: M. Iyengar, J. Wilson, O. Shahab, Sponsor H. Clarke Row 2: B. Yoo, S. Bosch, S. Carey, S. Rhoten, A. Debyah, S. Deevi, Z. Liang Row 3: B. Martin, D. Edelman, J. McCarter, S. Chancellor, J. Shin, J. Deal

Senior Omer Shahab discusses his resolution during a Debate Club meeting.

Seniors Benjamin Martin and Ben Yoo work on a resolution during a Debate Club meeting. "Debate is exciting with such an intimidating group. I can see everybody from Debate making it big with what they do," said Yoo. The Debate Team practiced during meetings for matches such as the District and Regional Tournaments.

Junior Stevie Chancellor displays information about Debate Team during V.I.P. Night.

DECA

Seniors Jennifer Uwanka, Lauren Reed, and Brianna Hughes gather after a day of competition at Chesterfield Town Center.

Row 1: M. Blydenburgh Row 2: Mr. Martin, K. Blanchard, A. George, S. George, Z. Frick, K. O'Donnell, K. Keys, K. Burhop, K. Rahall, B. Seaton, J. Cowan Row 3: S. Fridley, L. Simone, C. Seniors Jeremy Rogers and Brent Beswick hang out in anticipation for the Regional DECA competition.

art guild

Sophomore Kal Odea layers newspaper that have been soaked in glue and water to create a paper mache mask.

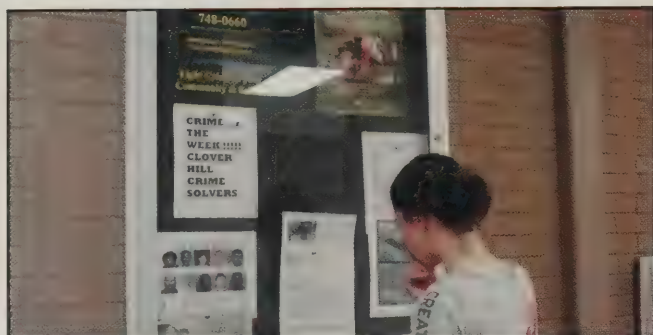

Seniors Dan Koon and Sarah George apply decorations to their dried paper mache masks.

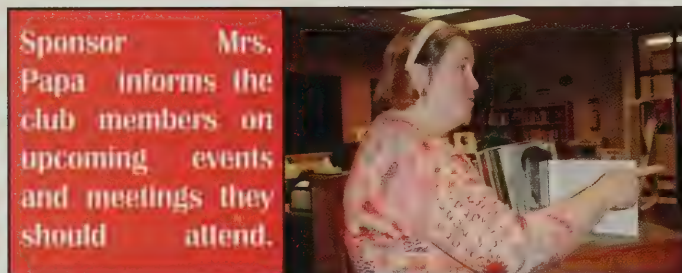

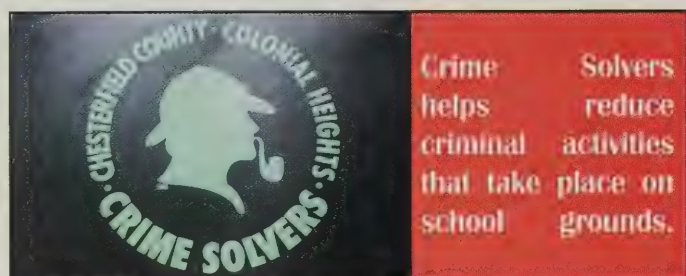

The Art Guild sponsors a painting of a mural on the art hall wall. Members used a black chalk paint so that they could write on the wall as if it was a blackboard. Every few weeks, a new image was drawn into one of the chalk walls, which was painted to look like an art easel.

crime solvers

Sophomore Taryn O'Shea curiously observes the Crime Solvers bulletin board. "The amount of crime in Chesterfield is scary. I am glad Crime Solvers is there to keep us safe," said O'Shea. The board was updated with current criminal activities in surrounding areas every week.

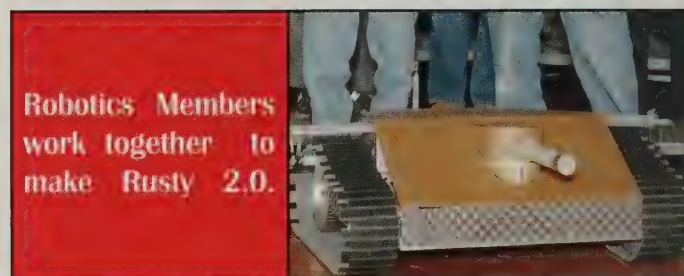

Row 1: James Bailey, Ian Wajciechowski

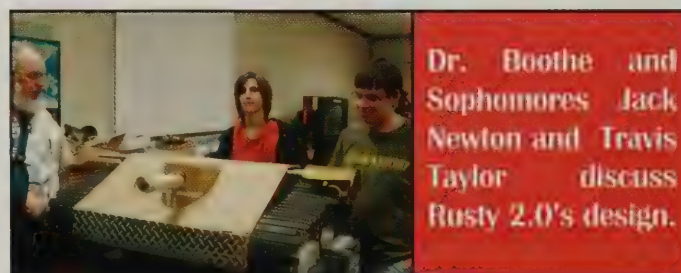

robotics

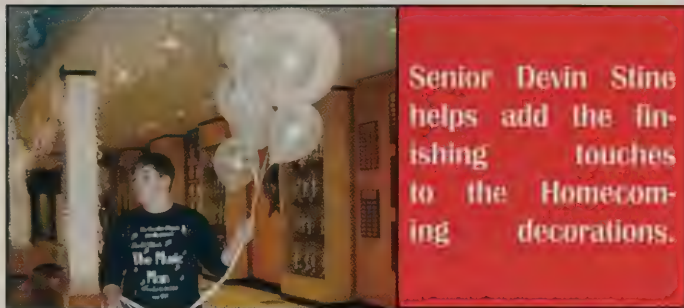

Row 1: J. Newton, S. Paulette Row 2: T. Taylor, G. Haver, S. Cordie J. Goff, E. Woods. Row 3: I. Tomlin, B. Michalowski, J. Joyce

Robotics members work on their new robot Borris with Dr. Boothe. "We take on challenges with moving metal machines," said Sophomore Jack Newton. Members worked to make their robot better for regional competition.

student council association

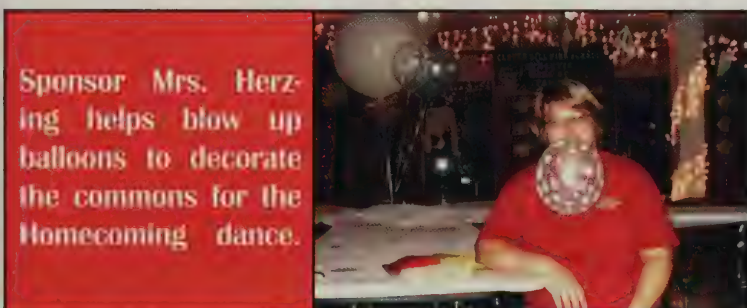

Row 1: A. Durnwirth, K. Cunningham, K. Barnes, T. Jones
 Row 2: A. Jackson, A. Marston, I. Stowe, H. Wakilpoor, E. Ash, A. Fogg
 Row 3: T. Song, R. Mullins, K. Eissler, K. Miller, A. Veracruz, R. Park, M. Anderson
 Row 4: K. Herceg, K. Huffman, D. Iverson, E. Peek, L. Newill-Smith, Z. Bromseth, B. Yoo, T. Mitchell, L. Moore, L. Reed, J. Uwanaka
 Row 5: A. Brown, C. Kuykendall, E. Edge, K. Plummer, R. Henry, R. Mitchell, H. Tatum, E. Fritz, K. Toney, M. Coyner, K. Wise, A. Tann

SCA officers, Junior Taylor Jones and Seniors Bridget Fitzgerald, Kristen Barnes, Alexa Durnwirth, and Kellyn Cunningham announce the oncoming guys for the auction. "It was great to see how the guys came together to raise money for the National MS Society, and it wouldn't have been possible without them," said Cunningham. The SCA was successful in raising $800 for the Society.

Freshman Kristen Herceg and Seniors Harris Wakilpoor and Ian Stowe string the trees with icicle lights outside of the commons. "Decorating the trees for the Homecoming Dance was an awe-inspiring opportunity, to help out the SCA and make Homecoming all the more festive," said Wakilpoor. The SCA transformed the commons into a Winter Wonderland for the evening.

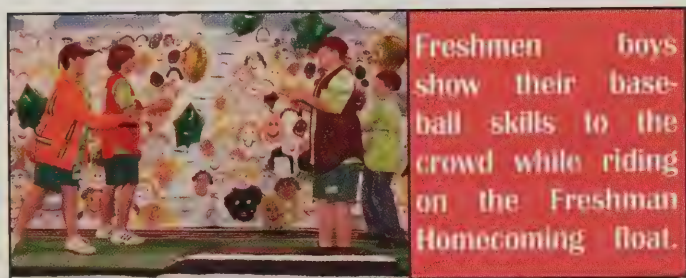

SCA members decorate the commons in a winter theme in preparation for the dance. The SCA helped invigorate spirit throughout the school through their hard work.

FAC

Row 1: J. Fitzgerald, E. Fritz, K. Herceg, H. Cameron, C. Houck Row 2: K. Fleshman, V. Carwile, M. Heising, A. Elliott Row 3: S. Nordan, K. Lassanah, A. Browne, A. Negaard

Freshmen boys show their baseball skills to the crowd while riding on the Freshman Homecoming float.

Freshmen girls end their parade performance by showing their class spirit in a short dance routine.

During the Homecoming Parade, Freshmen girls compete with the other floats by showing off their dance moves. "The best part about being a member of the Freshman Advisory Council was the Homecoming activities such as decorating the hallway and creating the float for the Homecoming Parade," said Freshman Heather Cameron. With the theme of spring, the Freshmen were successful at demonstrating their class spirit.

SMAC

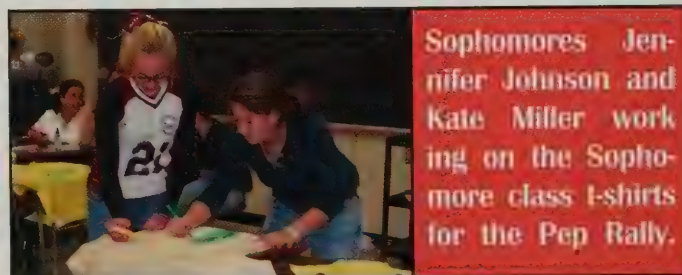

Row 1: B. Stout, L. Taylor, R. Mitchell, A. Vera-Cruz, L. Hamlin, D. Biase Row 2: K. Kraines, L. Newlon, M. Denecke, K. Cleary, R. Park, K. Miller, J. Johnson, C. Smith, C. Mason Row 3: A. Barth, A. Kim, V. Blanton, E. Kong, J. Bostick, A. Lombardi, G. Lee Row 4: B. Snider, K. Austin, H. Feng, C. Ritter, P. Tommusole, C. Wise, S. Shah, T. McDonald, A. Bottoms, K. O'dea, T. Nobbee

Sophomore Advisory Council members prepare for the Homecoming Parade.

The Sophomore Class Officers discuss upcoming spring events. "SMAC was great this year! The officers got along great, and the members were really dedicated. It was also pretty exciting trying to give the Seniors a run for their money during Spirit Week," said Sophomore Lia Taylor. The club had many successful tasks from their summer themed decorations to their iFlurtz fundraiser.

Sophomores Jennifer Johnson and Kate Miller working on the Sophomore class t-shirts for the Pep Rally.

Row 1: L. Pederson, A. Trimmer, A. Almore, T. Vance, J. Valerie, C. York, K. Roberts Row 2: K. Rahall, R. Grider, J. Lassiter, S. Hofford, P. Barranger, T. Pegoraro, B. Thompson, C. Jacob Row 3: S. Thornton, T. Mahan, C. Do, A. Stone, P. Knowlson, J. Moore, C. Mehford, N. Siodmok, S. Brown Row 4: F. Siodmok, S. Seay, J. Fish, S. Clementson, C. Kendrick, J. Pomeroy, A. Yang, J. Lee, Z. Liang, B. Gay

Members of the Junior Advisory Council dance on the float during the Homecoming Parade. "Performing on the Junior float was tons of fun. It was a great way to show pride for both the school and our class," said Junior Samantha Seay. The parade, which was always held on the night of the Homecoming game, had to be postponed to a later game due to rainy weather.

The trees containing the names of all Juniors served as the main decoration of the fall themed Junior hallway.

SAC

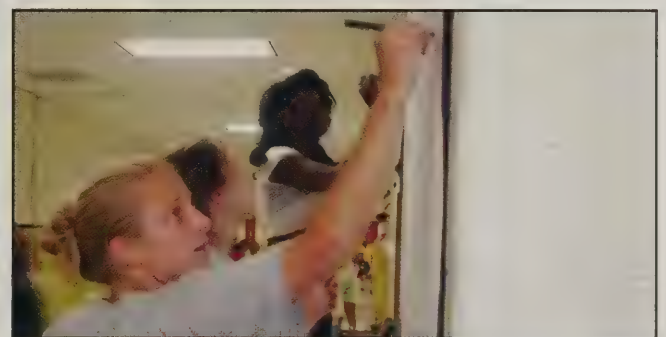

Row 1: E. Bollinger, G. Cuenin, K. Kennedy, E. Kraines, J. Walker, J. Clair Row 2: L. Fritz, L. Miutz, E. Naret, J. McCarter, D. Iverson, J. Uwanaka, K. Caspero, M. Coalter, L. Grecheck, M. Wiltshire, Row 3: N. Kumar, M. Berman, K. Freda, S. Platania, G. Oh, E. Lee, C. Kuykendall, J. Jerabek, A. Hart Row 4: N. Thomas, E. Early, Z. Frick, M. Phelps, T. Beavers, M. Anderson, A. George, A. Bradshaw, E. Brothers, S. George, S. Clark, S. Faulkner Row 5: B. Hughes, J. Grimes, K. Burhop, C. Haring, R. Cunningham, B. Beswick, I. Stowe, M. Bridges, B. Pearce, W. Riggensbach, M. Spraker, K. Remme, K. Holley

Seniors Kevin Fitzpatrick and Amanda Nemec carve out snowflakes to further the wintry theme.

Artwork created by Senior Carmina Cabo decorates the winter themed Senior hallway.

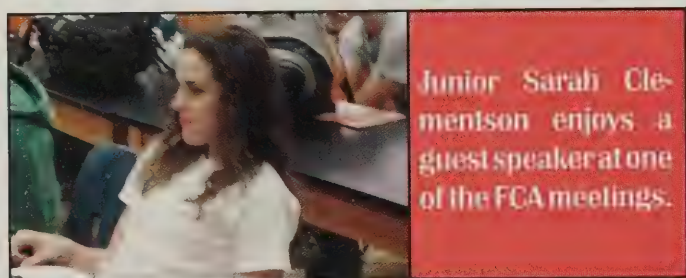

Senior Michelle Arrigoni paints faculty snowmen in the Winter Wonderland hallway. "No one can top the Senior class this year, so anything I can do to help makes it that much sweeter," said Arrigoni. The hallway won first place in the Homecoming hallway competition.

FCA

Row 1: R. Grider, R. Decker, S. Clementson, Mr. McCaskill Row 2: H. Cameron, A. Elliot, A. Davis, J. Purts, E. Bollinger, Z. Pinkleton, G. Mena Row 3: M. Heising, K. Keys, T. Song, A. Legas, A. Negaard, L. Brooks Row 4: M. Snelling, J. Uwanaka, G. Cuenin, E. Benton-Levith, M. Robinson, J. Robinson, A. Brown

Freshmen Tony Song and Madeline Heising show just how much fun it really is to be a member of FCA.

Members of FCA listen to the presentation of body builder Wes Estes. "FCA is a chance for Christian athletes to come together and share our experiences through our faith," said Junior Taylor Jones. Throughout the year, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes invited many guests to speak and enlighten the students.

model UN

Seniors Gloria Oh, Angela Bradshaw, and Esther Lee celebrate a year of hard work at their pizza party.

Row 1: L. Brothers, M. Zoghby, B. Martin, K. Gurecki, D. Petric, D. Edleman, M. Himzs. Row 2: B. Yoo, O. Shahab, L. Newill-Smith, S. Bachouros, A. Bradshaw, S. Rhoten, S. Deevi. Row 3: P. Moore, J. Wilson, Z. Bromseth, G. Oh, E. Lee, R. Semus, S. Piercey, K. Searfoorce

The club sponsors, Mr. Fout and Mr. Bogdanowicz, congratulate the Model U.N. representatives with a pizza party. "It was good to get to know my partner and my country, Poland," said Senior Katie Gurecki. The members of Model U.N. went to Old Dominion University to discuss world matters for a long weekend with other schools' representatives.

Senior Ben Martin and Junior Morgan Halverson enjoy pizza as they laugh about things that happened at the Model U.N. competition.

rock climbing club

Junior Katherine Marek climbs an obstacle course. "I participate in a competition climbing team outside of school, so it's great to be able to climb in a more laid back atmosphere with my peers," said Marek. Marek began the club last year along with Junior Alex Potter as a way for students to rock climb together.

Senior Stephen Kaerwer scales the rock bridge at Peak Experiences.

writer's guild

Row 1: Ben Yoo, Daniel Montrose, Amanda Rogan, Sara Cordie, Stephen Paulette, Trevor Beattie

Senior Jessica Burton reads aloud her newest story to members of the club.

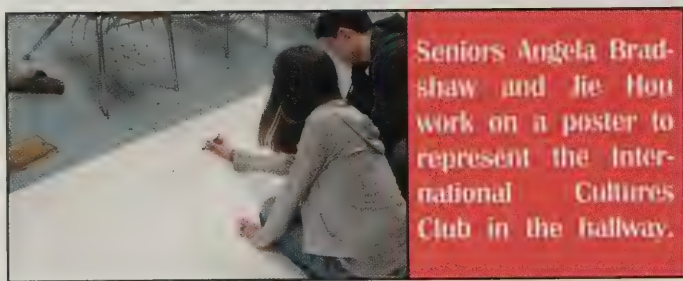

Every Thursday these creative writers meet together to recite poetry, give each other constructive criticism, and interact with their fellow writers. "Writer's Guild is a place where you can express your thoughts and say exactly what's on your mind," said Sophomore Amanda Rogan. The club provided students with a place to speak out and further their careers as writers.

ICC

Row 1: S. Grosse, S. Faszewski, B. Yoo, J. Hou, R. Semus Row 2: A. Bradshaw, S. Reavis, E. Lee, Z. Bromseth, B. Martin, L. Newill-Smith Row 3: K. Felix, J. Stringer, K. Kumar, K. Rogers, S. Shah, G. Lee Row 4: S. Racette, P. Folliard, S. Smelley, C. Kendrick, C. Duball, D. Montrose

Seniors Angela Bradshaw and Jie Hou work on a poster to represent the International Cultures Club in the hallway.

Senior Erin Edge decorates the hallway to remind the students of the Irish-American Holiday.

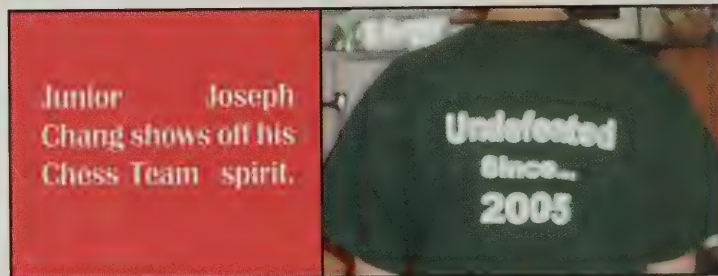

As active members of the club, students prepare to decorate the hallway prior to St. Patrick's Day. "I like how we are able to share our own culture while getting a deeper insight on other heritages within our school," said Senior Erin Edge. Throughout the year, the members of the International Cultures Club had the opportunity to learn more about different cultures around the world and their traditions.

chess club

Junior Timothy Dannenhoffer has his game face on during a match at a Chess Club meeting.

The Chess Team celebrates every time they win a match. "We go home happy that we won the match," said Senior Jack Barrow. The team received many trophies to display their achievements.

academic team

Freshman Amit Shukla carefully contemplates his answer before responding to the challenging question.

Row 1: M. Loret, B. Martin, J. Joyce, S. Cardwell, C. Diming, J. Wilson, A. Shukla.
Row 2: J. Joyce, C. Howk, M. Brown, I. Tomlin, P. Saraiya, C. Condrey, K. Christian.

Senior Elizabeth Peek, Sophomore Charles Howk, and Junior Ian Tomlin relax for a few minutes at practice before the next round of questions begins. "To prepare for the District tournament, we practiced at least two times a week. The practices were a lot of fun because there was always a lot of sarcasm exchanged between the teammates," said Junior Ian Tomlin. The Academic Team went on to win the District Tournament.

Kathryn Christian waits patiently as her teammate buzzes in to answer the next question.

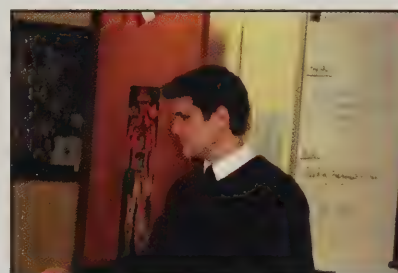

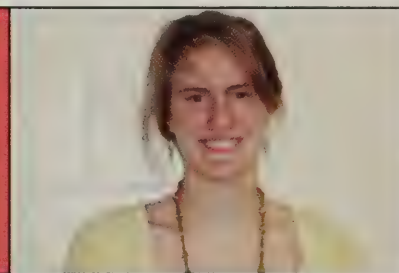

research council

Row 1: Dawn Iverson, Kim Rogers, Iffie Ikem, Rachel Mullins, Maya Iyengar
Row 2: Parth Saraiya, Alex Lombardi, Shannon Rhoten, Elizabeth Peek
Row 3: Sonia Choi, Collin Mason, Timothy Dannenhoffer, Tiffanee Brown

Junior Rachel Mullins helps other classmates find ways to fix their research projects.

Mr. Templeton encourages members to expose a love for research in the community.

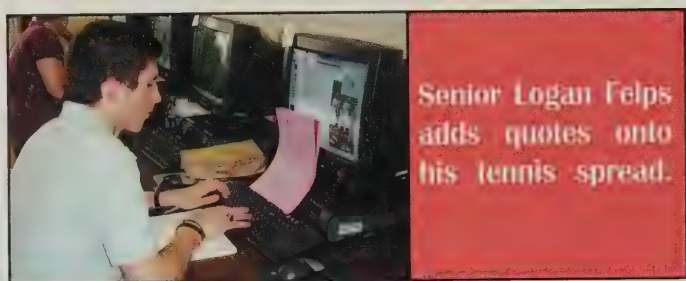

The success of the students inspires the members of Research Council. "I became a member because I thought it was a great way to help underclassmen with their research projects," said Senior Dawn Iverson. With the help of the Council, many students were able to do well at various science fairs.

yearbook

Row 1: C. Choi, K. Peng Row 2: K. Roberts, K. Orth, P. Knowlson, L. Felps, A. George, A. Wilson, M. Lawman Row 3: T. O'Shea, T. McDonald, C. Baker, K. Gurecki, K. Eissler, A. VeraCruz, B. Lightfoot, L. Eramian, B. Smith, L. Piper, K. Malady, V. Grigorieva

Senior Logan Felps adds quotes onto his tennis spread.

Senior Editors-in-Chief Christina Choi and Katie Peng edit spreads on the computers. "Being on yearbook has been a good experience. It has taught me many things about being responsible," said Choi. The girls started working on the yearbook as Sophomores.

PIE

Row 1: Becky Shields, Kelli Nowland, Katie Gurecki, Nina Ternate, Miranda Hooghkirk Row 2: Kim Rogers, Chris Diming, Edward Kong, Tatum Deming, Kristen Felix, Shannon Grosse

Senior Kristen Felix tutors third, fourth, and fifth graders at Chalkley Elementary School every Tuesday afternoon.

Seniors Katie Gurecki and Shannon Grosse believe they have truly made a difference through their tutoring. "Being President of Partners In Education has made me realize how much of a difference one person can make," said Gurecki. Students had the option of tutoring at different elementary schools across Chesterfield County.

Seniors Becky Shields and Tatum Deming love "the little people" they tutor at Boulton and Falling Creek Elementary Schools.

CHESTERFIELD LITTLE LEAGUE WHERE THE FUN BEGINS!!!

2007 - Celebrating our 19th year of providing baseball to the youth of Chesterfield County.
CLL is co-sponsored by Chesterfield County Parks and Recreation.

CLL is unique in that it utilizes an evaluation and draft method to select teams and has a must play rule. This enables all players to have the opportunity to play for a championship team. Although CLL is comprised mostly of boys between the ages of 5-18, girls are eligible and welcome to play. Visit our web site at www.eteamz.com/cllb for updates regarding the spring and fall seasons.

Katie,
Congratulations!
We are so proud of you and your accomplishments.

Love,
Mom, Dad and Tim

Mej,

*Your smile lights every room.
We have watched you grow into an amazing young woman. Follow your dreams and believe in yourself, you will always have our love and support!
Remember, keep your head up high!*

*We love you,
Mom, Dad, Melinda and Morgan*

Nataasha Emerald Kelly

Dear Tasha,

It seems like only yesterday we were celebrating your Preschool graduation. Now, we are looking on as you embark on the most exciting phase of your educational journey. Throughout the years, you have set goals for yourself, and through determination and patience, you have effectively met your aspirations. If you continue in this way, you will no doubt remain successful in life. We are so very proud of you and we wish you much happiness in every aspect of your future. Just remember, no matter how formally educated you become, the most important thing to hold on to is your beautiful, silly heart.... WE LOVE YOU SQUIRREL!
Congratulations on your graduation!

Love,
Mom & Dad

Alexa Rae,

It's hard to capture, in words, the essence of a person like you. You have blessed us with a lifetime of love and joy. Your drive and determination is second to none. You approach life with a sense of humor and passion, always ready to try new things.

You accomplish all that you set out to do including horseback riding, scuba diving and tennis. You've been a dedicated student, always going the extra mile to achieve the best you could. You've chosen your friends wisely: have faith in the Lord and a strong sense of family.

Those who know you love you. You are a gentle soul with much to offer this world. We couldn't love or admire you more. God bless you on your journey through to age.

"Our wish for you is that life will be all that you want it to, your dreams stay big and your worries stay small." -Rasica Flatts

Love you Big Dog,

Dad, Mom, RK, Madison and Dakota!

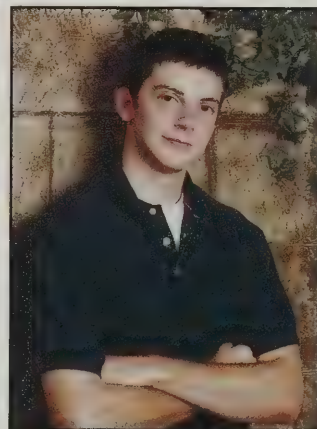

Kevin,

Congratulations! We are very proud of you. Stay happy and healthy, and follow your dreams.

Love Always,

Mom and Brenna

Ben Blanton

Congratulations to our new Hokie! We are very proud of the young man you have become. We look forward to seeing God's plan for you unfold. (Jeremiah 29:11)

We Love you,
Mom, Dad, Rachel,
Marjorie & Josh

All grown up and everywhere to go! Live life to the fullest!

Be Happy! Enjoy! Relax! Focus! You are a terrific young man. We are so very proud of all of your accomplishments and look forward to sharing your future endeavors. Just remember, there's nothing you can't do when you set your ambitions high. Follow your heart and you will find fulfillment.

We love you more than you will ever know!

Mom and Dad

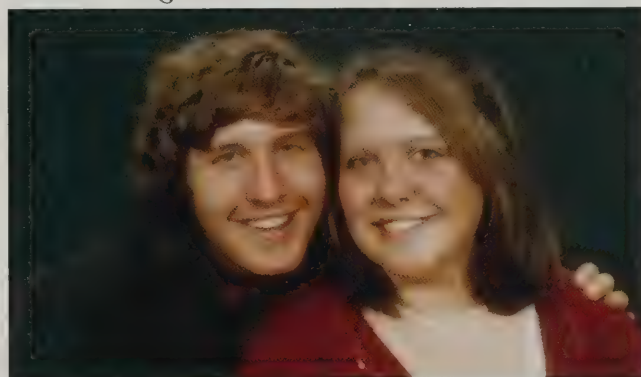

I have never been more proud of you than I have been the last year! You have shown me your true strength and wisdom, and I can only hope to become half the person you are. I know that you will go far in life with your strong will and determination. You are a truly unique person with an amazing gift. You have so much to share with the world, and I only hope that everyone in your life has been as greatly affected by you in the same way that you have influenced me.

You motivate me to pursue my goals and accomplish whatever I set my mind to. You have taught me to be an open-minded and open-hearted person, and above all, you have given me the gift of thought. I hope that I can pass on the happiness you have brought me to everyone that comes into my life. That is something you will always be able to take with you, wherever you go. The joy that you bring people is the greatest thing anyone could ask for. I know that it will bring so many amazing people into your life. After all, you only deserve the best. I love you so much, and I will always miss you.

Know that you will always have a special place in my heart, and I wish you the best of luck in college!

Love Always, Lyndsey

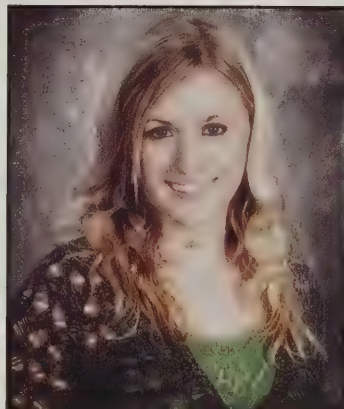

We hope your dreams take you...to the corners of your smiles, to the highest of your hopes, to the windows of your opportunities, and to the most special places your heart has ever known.

Dearest Lindsey,

We remember the day you were born like it was yesterday. Now we are watching you graduate from high school and to pursue your future. Where did all those years go? You grew from a beautiful baby girl to a beautiful woman. We both wish we could keep you close to us forever. Always remember that we love you with all our hearts.

You will always be our little girl...

Continue your journey through life knowing that we have always been proud of you.

One thing that will always remain true is our love for you,
Mom, Dad and Stevie

Ashley Elizabeth Murphy

Only once will you take your first breath-
Only once will you take your first step.

I'll comfort you when you have your first fall-
And I'll teach you how to stand straight and tall.

I'll hold your hand through childhood fears-
And I'll guide you true, through teenage tears.

When you're grown, you'll have courage and conviction-
You'll go through life with heart and intention.

Remember, little one, the best things in life are free-

So love always, laugh often, that is the key.

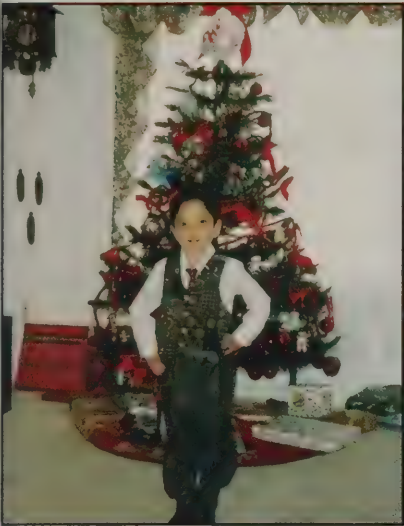

-Mitzi Lasseigne

We love you and are so proud of you!

Congratulations from Mom Dad Nick and Grandma. We are all so proud of how hard you worked during high school. You earned everything you received. Watching you is like watching one of the great masters of art painting a picture. Its a wonderful work in progress promising a rich and surprising masterpiece that we have to impatiently wait just a little longer for Gods hand to complete. Continue to work hard but take the time to enjoy your college years. Love from all of us.

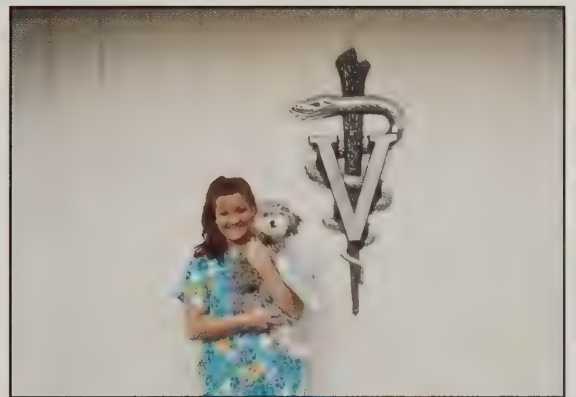

Amy Catherine Kirkland

Congratulations to you and the Class of '07!!!

We're proud of you and love you very much. Continue to dream, do your best, and be happy.

Kaila,

It's hard to believe that you have grown up so fast. We have enjoyed watching you grow from a little girl into a beautiful young woman. We are especially proud of how you have always been a sweet and considerate person who cared about others. You are entering into a different and enjoyable phase in your life and there are great things ahead for you. Continue to work hard and you will be able to accomplish everything in life you want. We are looking forward to spending time with you and love you very much.

Congratulations on your success!!

Ashleigh's Graduation

A celebration for achievements you've worked hard to accomplish

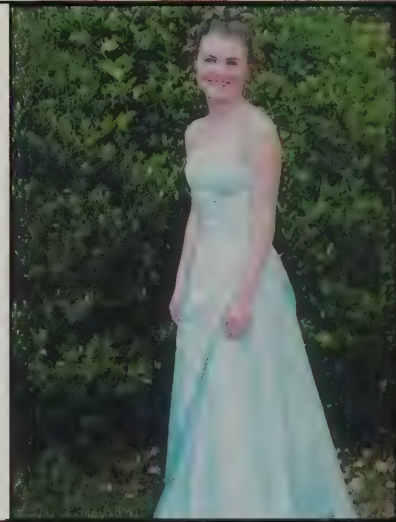

A Farewell to one part of your life's journey
A beginning to set goals, dream new dreams and try your wings

As I watched, eagerly anticipating your first baby steps, I never dreamed the time would pass so quickly. Now, as I see you maturing and taking greater steps into adulthood, I pray that all your dreams come true and that you always find happiness in everything you do!

Never forget that I am still standing in your corner, cheering you on, celebrating your successes and ready to lend a helping hand if you should stumble!

I Love you and am so very proud of you,
Mommy

Molly Spraker

Mollyboo, remember that unhappy little girl on the first day of school? She's now a delightful, vibrant young woman anticipating life's adventures. We're so proud of our sweet little Belle. We wish you magic and joy, dream to strive for and dreams fulfilled. Don't forget to pack all our love when you pack for Longwood.

Love,

Mom, Dad, Patrick & Anne

Melissa Holmes

We have watched you grow into an incredible young lady and are very proud of everything you have accomplished. You have excelled on the sports field and in the classroom.

From soccer and cheerleading when you were younger to now swimming. We know that you will continue the Cavalier tradition as you transition from Clover Hill to the University of Virginia. Your love of rainbows should remind you to look for the pot of gold. Always challenge yourself and follow your dreams. Never settle for less than your best. Congratulations and good luck as you continue your academic career at the University of Virginia.

We love you.

Mom, Dad & Brad

Congratulations Harris! We all love you and hope that your phenomenal journey will continue to broaden.

Wishing you nothing but the best,

With all our love,
Mom & Dad

Tiffany

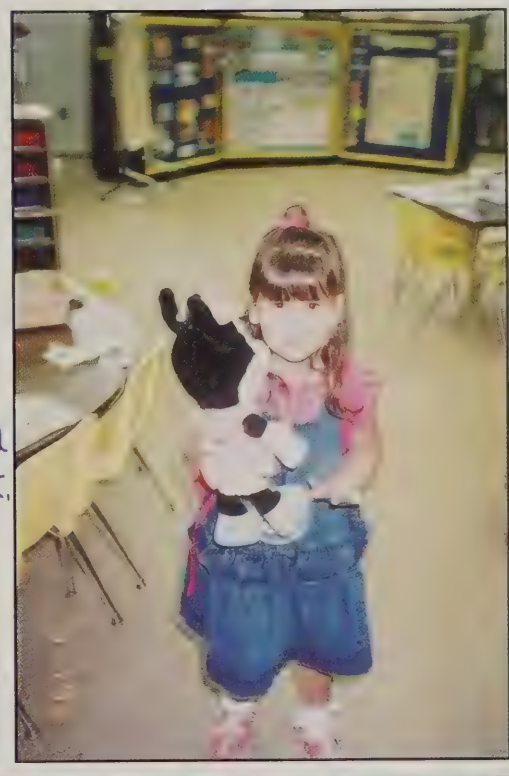

I can still remember the day that you were born, it seems like just yesterday. The very first time that I saw you I could not believe how blessed I was. Now you are ready to spread your wings and start a new stage of your life. I know sometimes you doubt if you are ready or not, but I know that you are ready. You are an inspiration to us as well as our family and friends; you continue to amaze me everyday. At an early age in your life, you have had to make decisions that only adult people have had to do and yet you have made the right decisions.

I only want to tell you one thing, when you are going through a difficult time in your life and feel you can't take it any more just remember this.

"For I, the LORD your God, will hold your right hand, saying to you, Fear not, I will help you"
Isaiah 41:13

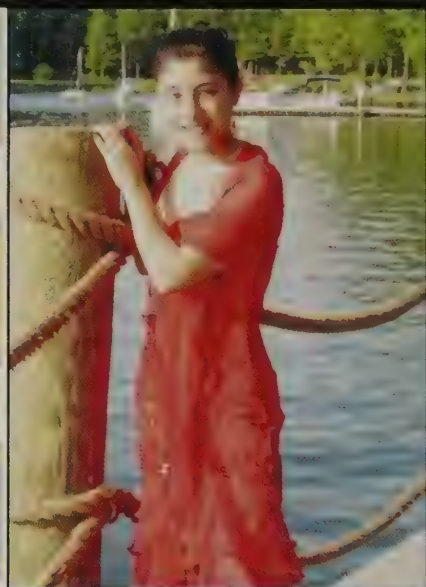

Love,
Mom, Dad, Jonathan & Kevin

Congratulations Cristina "Go Blue"

You have blossomed to a beautiful, loving and caring young woman. Continue the quest for knowledge, conquering all challenges and obstacles while taking the paths least traveled. Always know that you are blessed by the prayers and support of family and friends who are both near and far away. You are never more than a thought away from any of us at any time.

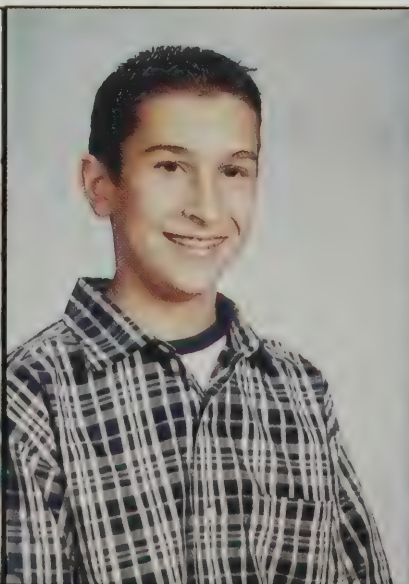

We are proud of you and love you very much.
"Mom, Dad, and Tino"

Shane Thomas Miller,

As you make your way through the pathway of life, always keep in mind that we have always been and will continue to be traveling beside you. We will strive never to lead or to follow, but to be truly one with your choices and your direction. We are anxious to see where you want to go and are proud to have been part of where you have been from.

Love you forever,
Mom, Dad, Austin & Aaron

Carter,

Where have the 18 years gone? It was just yesterday we walked to the bus stop and had to help you get on the bus because your legs were too short to reach the first step. After that first step you never looked back. You came into this world as a gift from God and now must trust Him to guide you through the next chapter of your life. Thank you for sharing your joys, laughter and sunshine with us each day. We are proud of your accomplishments and will miss you and your crazy self next year.

Never forget your friends, where you came from and who helped you along the way. Believe in yourself and depend on your faith to reach the desires of your heart.

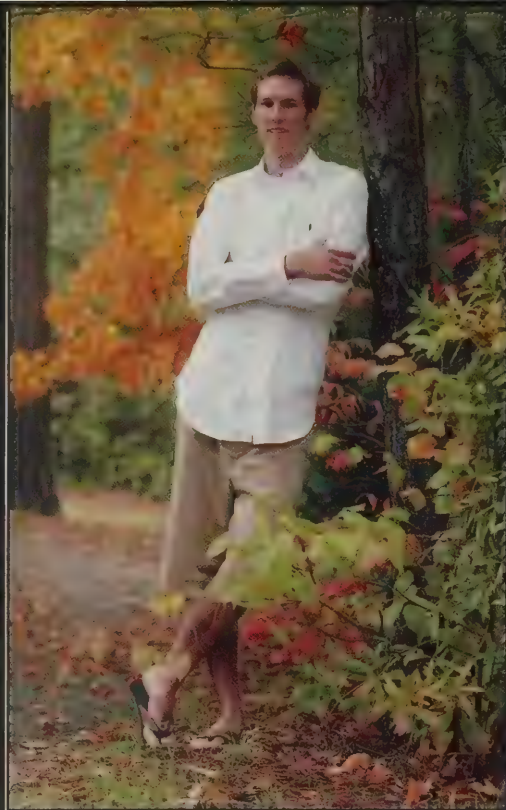

Congratulations!
We love you,
Mom, Dad & Brett

Collin Granger

Collin,
You have had a great "run"! May you always remember that in life, as in sports, you will always miss 100% of the shots you don't take. You have taken many shots, in many different arenas. We love you and support you in all that you do.
Congratulations and good luck at Wake Forest! Follow your dreams!
Love, Mom, Dad, Elyse & Ardyn

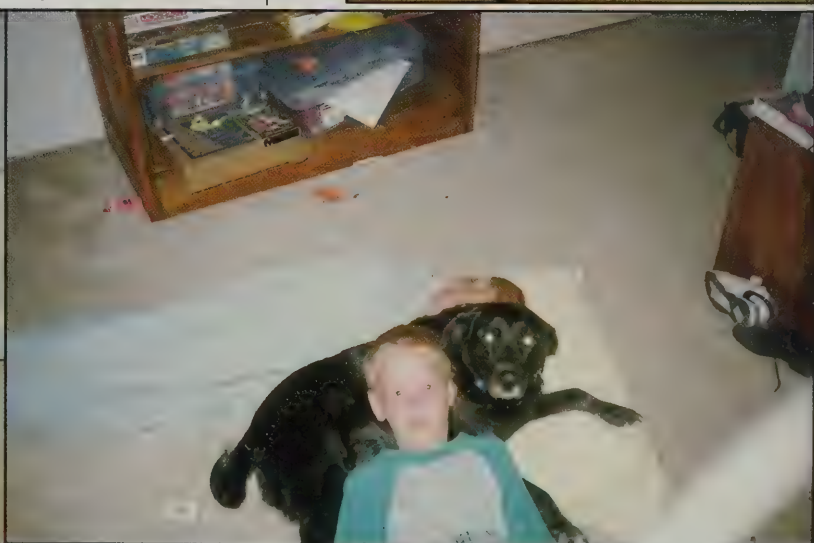

SUCCESS

*Success! It's found in the soul of you,
And not in the realm of luck!
The world will furnish the work to do,
But you must provide the pluck.
You can do whatever you think you can,
It's all in the way you view it;
It's all in the start that you make, young man ~
You must feel that you're going to do it!*

Alexander David Van Ness

Alex,

We have no doubt that you will thrive and excel in college and beyond. Your energy is boundless, your creativity is amazing, and your ambition and zest for life are contagious. We are sure that you will do very well in college as you have in high school. Your family loves you more than you can know and we will be watching with anticipation as you grab life by the collar and make it into whatever you decide.

Wishing you the very best!

Mom, Dad, Adam, Mark and Andrea

Katie, Logan, Christina, Amy,
Amanda, Meg and Katherine,

Thank you so much for all of your hard work this year! Congratulations and good luck!

Ms. Jones

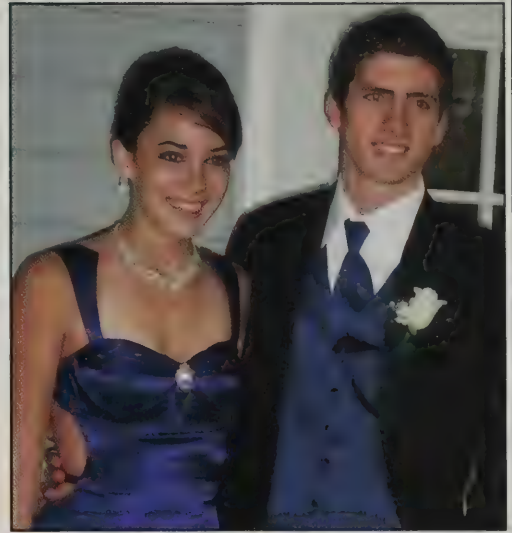

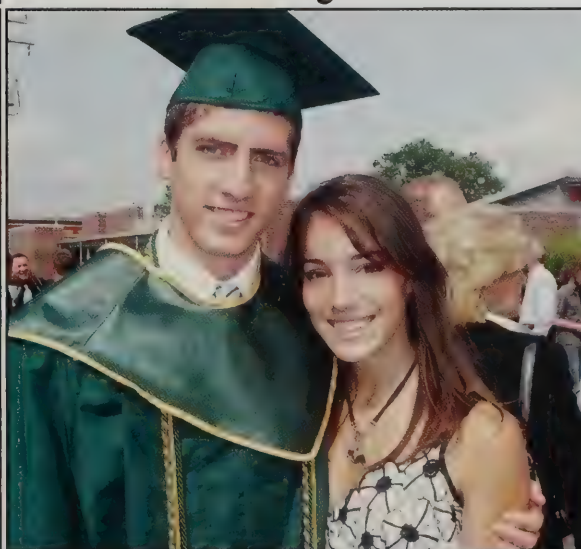

Logan,
 I'll be seeing you
 In all the old familiar places
 That this heart of mine embraces
 All day through.
 In that small cafe;
 The park across the way;
 The children's carousel;
 The chestnut trees;
 The wishin' well.
 I'll be seeing you
 In every lovely summer's day;
 In every thing that's light and gay.
 I'll always think of you that way.

I'll find you
 In the morning sun
 And when the night is new.
 I'll be looking at the moon,
 But I'll be seeing you.
 I'll be seeing you
 In every lovely summer's day;
 In every thing that's light and gay.
 I'll always think of you that way.

I'll find you
 In the morning sun
 And when the night is new.
 I'll be looking at the moon,
 But I'll be seeing you.
 -Billie Holiday

"So it's not gonna be easy. It's gonna be really hard. We're gonna have to work at this every day, but I want to do that because I want you. I want all of you, forever, you and me, every day." - The Notebook

I love you, I'll be seeing you,
 Paige

To our Jostens family, Ms. Jan DeFalco, Ms. Shannon Dugan, Mr. Jason Baranowski, and Ms. Kristen Stimmell, thank you for supporting us through all of our deadlines. We could not have made this book without you. From brainstorming our theme at the Williamsburg workshop to watching us eat during every single class, your guidance has been greatly appreciated.

To the entire yearbook staff: Thank you for missing every single deadline but always keeping us entertained in the process. Your hard work and determination have made our vision a reality, and we will miss all of you. To our editors: You have put up with us, from our 'witty' comments and our disorganized desk to our vain need for pictures (right, Logan?), and we hope you like the final product.

To Pindsay/Knowlper/Pison/Pipson... good luck. No, seriously, good luck. We have taught you everything we know, especially Christina (she told me to write that), and we're sure your book will be glamorous (flossy flossy). Lindsay, thank you for stepping up and being a leader this year when one was necessary. Paige, thank you for getting all those ads done on such short notice and always being willing to help us out. Don't let the book overwhelm you (Paige), and don't shop for boat shoes during class (Lindsay). We love you, and we'll miss you.

Lastly, to our sponsor, Ms. KELLILYN Jones, thank you so much for everything you have done this past year. From our GREEN & GOLD chant to both of us being late on the first day of class, you have kept us sane...and at least partially organized. We appreciate all the time and effort you have put into this book, especially taking on the task of being the new yearbook sponsor!

Love, Pengchoi
